

WHILE BUDDHISTS DEMONSTRATE . . .

New U.S. Operations Kill N. Viet Regulars

Saigon (AP) — U.S. forces pressed ahead Sunday with drives in three areas of South Viet Nam and, after bagging a score of communists, reported only light contact.

U.S. B52s backed up one of the drives with a raid heard in Saigon. A U.S. military spokesman said the bombers struck at suspected Viet Cong targets in the swampy Rung Sat area only 20 miles south-east of the capital to support the U.S. Marine Operation Jack Stay launched Saturday. The Marines are trying to clear Saigon's river approaches.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division continued operation Lincoln near the Cambodian border and seized a cache of rice. They reported killing seven North Vietnamese soldiers in the area Sunday.

Another search and kill operation, Fillmore, was under way in the coastal plains.

In Saigon, Viet Cong struck back with terrorism when a mine ripped a bus near Tam Ky, 350 miles northeast of here and killed seven Vietnamese civilians.

Political pressures mounted against Premier Nguyen Coa Ky's military regime.

A Buddhist parade of perhaps 20,000 persons in Hue demanded a civilian government and accused the United States of blocking civilian rule by supporting Ky.

Ky Sold Out

About 500 Buddhists demonstrated in Saigon, charging Ky sold out to the United States. It prompted Ky to make a brief radio address, appealing for calm and order. He promised a return to democracy but said it "can't be built overnight."

In Operation Lincoln, troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry division swept to within two miles of the Cambodian border where they clashed with a communist platoon. Associated Press correspondent George Esper reported that seven North Vietnamese regulars were killed and one captured. Later a briefing officer in Saigon raised the enemy death toll to 10.

The action was 32 miles southwest of Pleiku in the Ia Drang Valley where the cavalrymen fought a bloody battle against North Vietnamese forces last November.

Survivors of the enemy unit broke off contact after the brief encounter and fled to avoid artillery and air strikes.

On the central coast, troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne's 1st Brigade probed for communist forces in Operation Fillmore 13 miles south of Tuy Hoa, 225 miles northeast of Saigon. U.S. officials said the airborne troops killed 10 communists and captured two others in a brief encounter.

The Hue demonstration against Ky was orderly. Most of the participants were young people.

The Buddhists even had ambulances spotted along the parade route, so well organized was the demonstration.

Some of the banners carried this inscription in English: "To obstruct the forming of Viet Nam national assembly is to sell Viet Nam to communism. To hinder the summoning of parliament is to intervene in Viet Nam's own affairs."

This was a reference to what Buddhists consider American support of the military government and opposition to civilian government.

Double Services Held Sunday For Storm Victims

Gresham (AP) — Double funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Gresham for Mr. and Mrs. Gold Dey, victims of the Tuesday night blizzard which swept over Nebraska.

Their bodies were found Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Archie Dey, brother and sister-in-law of Gold Dey. The Dey car had stalled in a lane leading to the family house. Mrs. Dey was found near the house; Dey about 1,000 feet from the house.

The Dey's were among 21 Nebraskans who died in the storm.

City's Permit, Use Fees Being Increased Steadily

By BOB SCHREIFF
Star Staff Writer

By a gradual administrative and legislative process, the city is methodically increasing permit and use fees and occupation taxes to help meet supervision and inspection costs.

The City Council initiated a review of present revenues to see if charges were adequate, and in several instances decided they were not.

And although the study bogged down because of other business before the council, steps have been taken to implement the recommendations of various department heads.

For instance, there are ordinances on second reading on the council agenda which will raise the permit fee for nursing and care homes and child care centers to bring revenues more in line with health department costs in rendering inspection services.

Would Go Up

If the measures are approved, nursing and care home permit fees would be increased from the present $20 annually to $20 plus $1 a patient for each patient capacity beyond 10, and child care center fees would go from $10 to $15 plus 50 cents per child above a capacity of 10.

These changes will result in revenues of $1,242 annually for nursing homes and $839 for child centers, just under the actual costs of inspecting the facilities, $1,300 and $900 respectively.

The health department also figures it spends $21,000 yearly to inspect food establishments and receives present revenue from operators permits of $5,800 from the $20 fee.

It recommends increasing the charge to $30 annually plus $1 for each permanent seat over 30 and 25 cents for each seat of "occasional seating capacity" (this amount would be figured by dividing by 365 the total number of people served each year with other than fixed seating facilities).

$18,000 A Year

This formula, which would result in an estimated revenue of $18,000 a year, would more justly reflect the costs incurred in inspecting the operation of a small restaurant owner, as compared to that of a hotel, which might have small fixed seating but might serve thousands of people annually in special banquet areas.

An ordinance authorizing this increase will be introduced Monday.

Also on second reading is an ordinance recommended by City Traffic Engineer, Robert Holsinger and Public Safety Director Emmett Jung, which would change the charge for hooding parking meters from $2 a day or $10 a month to a straight $1 a day.

New Law On Adding To Need For Supervision Of Youth Used

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A new law which provides for a misdemeanor offense of contributing to the need for special supervision of persons under the age of 18 is being enforced in Lancaster County in many situations where contributing to the delinquency of a minor was previously charged.

According to officials of the county attorney's office, the new law is better defined in that frequently an adult may be guilty of contributing to a child's need for special supervision but not necessarily the delinquency of a child.

The delinquency charge often tended to place a delinquent tag on an innocent child who had not violated any law or ordinance but merely was the victim of a situation forced upon him by an adult

The aim is to keep parking stalls open as much time as possible, Holsinger said. Although the average revenue from each meter is $10 a month, Holsinger said studies show that an individual stall will produce an estimated $10,000 in business annually.

Revised Schedule

The council has already passed, supplementary to the ordinance adopting the new Uniform Building Code, revised building permit fee schedule which will amount to a 35% increase in revenues for the division of building inspection.

The occupation tax for wholesale beer dealers has recently been changed by the council from $250 to $500 annually.

Other charges, such as city clerk's fees for copying work, will be changed by administrative process, city officials said.

'Great Leader' To Give Orders

... BUT SUHARTO, NASUTION IN

Singapore (AP) — President Sukarno announced a new reform cabinet which he said will get its orders from him as Indonesia's "great leader." But the cabinet includes Lt. Gen. Suharto and Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, two anti-communists who figured in the ouster of Sukarno's pro-Chinese communist regime.

Sukarno's announcement was broadcast by Radio Jakarta.

Suharto, the military strongman now in effective rule of the nation, was named fifth deputy premier in charge of defense and security.

Nasution Named

Nasution was made a minister and deputy chief of the "crush Malaysia" Command (KOGAM).

Sukarno announced appointment of a 30-man cabinet plus a six-man presidium, a sort of executive committee.

Suharto was named as a temporary member of this presidium. This "temporary" was not explained.

The presidium chief is Dr. Johannes Leimena, 61. He also becomes first deputy premier, a post held by Dr. Subandrio, chief architect of Indonesia's swing toward Red China. Subandrio and 14 other pro-communist ministers of Sukarno's old cabinet are under arrest.

Noncontroversial

Leimena, a Christian and a noncontroversial cabinet member for years, was second deputy premier in Sukarno's old cabinet.

Other members of the presidium are K. H. Idham Chalid, second deputy premier; Ruslan Abdulgani, third deputy premier; Sultan Hamengkubuwono, fourth deputy premier, and Adam Malik, sixth deputy premier.

After the announcement of the new cabinet, Suharto went on the air with a speech saying his actions banning the Indonesian Communist Party and arresting the 15 pro-Red ministers were just the beginning of a new deal for Indonesia's 105 million people.

Nasution's appointment brings him back into the government. Sukarno fired him as defense minister

Feb. 21—a move that set off the student demonstrations that eventually led to Suharto's seizure of power March 11. Sukarno is believed now to be only a figurehead.

Crush Red Party

At the time of his ouster, Nasution was leading a military campaign to crush Indonesia's Communist Party, largest in the world outside the Iron and Bamboo Curtains.

Sukarno said the deputy premiers will work collectively and will get their orders from him.

Suharto, in his speech, said Sukarno's handing over of broad governing powers to the armed forces had been welcomed by the Indonesian people.

Suharto said he hoped the new cabinet would soon be able to announce a program to improve the economy—especially the supply of food.

44 Rescued From Rig In Storm

London (AP) — Gales gusting up to 100 miles an hour spread a trail of death and damage across Britain over the weekend and brought emergency calls from two North Sea oil rigs.

Two helicopters Sunday lifted 44 men from the oil rig Ocean Prince, battered by huge waves off the Yorkshire coast.

To the south, 29 crewmen aboard the rig Constellation rode out the storm after a similar rescue attempt was driven off by the weather.

Returns To Port

A lifeboat dispatched to the scene, near Lowestoft on the east coast, was ordered to return to port and reports said a tug had the rig in tow. Another tug and a supply ship were standing by.

Before the weather moderated, mighty waves had lifted the rig at angles up to 15 degrees and caused it to rise and fall as much as 30 feet. The rig is owned by the Atlantic Oil Co.

Ashore, the winds blew down communications lines, uprooted trees and stripped roofs from houses. Sleet and hail lashed the North Sea coast.

Couple Killed

At Manca in eastern England, a 17-year-old girl and her boyfriend were killed as they crossed a railroad line hand in hand, apparently unable to hear an approaching train because of the howling wind.

A 65-year-old man was swept into the sea by a mighty wave at the resort of Bournemouth while trying to rescue his dog, the pet survived.

In the south London suburb of Wimbledon, gale force winds blew down a tree, killing a child and seriously injuring two others.

WEATHER

LINCOLN: Partly cloudy and warmer with a high near 55. Variable winds of less than 15 mph.

EAST AND CENTRAL NEBRASKA: Partly cloudy and warmer. Highs from the mid-50s in the east to the low 60s in the central.

GOP Dinner Here Spotlights Romney

Gov. George Romney of Michigan has accepted an invitation to address a Republican fund-raising dinner in Lincoln May 19. Fred Seaton of Hastings announced Sunday.

Romney will speak at Pershing Auditorium.

Tickets will be priced at $75 per plate, or $100 for a couple.

Seaton is vice chairman of the Republican National Finance Committee for the Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska region.

The Romney event will be a Republican appreciation dinner for GOP primary nominees and is designed to raise funds "so that they may be properly financed in their campaigns," Seaton said.

Romney, prominent in na-

Reds May Rehabilitate The Memory Of Stalin

Moscow (AP) — A significant clue appeared Sunday that the Kremlin is partially rehabilitating the memory of Joseph Stalin despite opposition here and abroad.

The clue was in articles praising party leader Sergei M. Kirov. They omitted suggestions previously made that Stalin had him murdered in 1934 because of personal rivalry.

The clue came two days before the opening of the Soviet Communist Party's 23rd Congress. Communist sources have said party chief Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev will discuss Stalin in his report to the congress Tuesday. The report is expected to omit much of the blame once placed on Stalin for grave crimes.

New Split Seen

Twenty-five party intellectuals have told Brezhnev in a letter that "any step toward rehabilitation, would lead to a new split in the ranks of communists" and be interpreted as Soviet weakness in the face of Chinese praise for Stalin.

The Italian Communist Party newspaper L'Unita echoed this Sunday, saying that if the 23rd congress adopts a "political reevaluation of the figure of Stalin that . . . minimizes the negative judgment of the 20th congress it is best to say right away that we cannot accept it."

The 20th congress in 1956 heard the "secret speech" of Nikita S. Khrushchev on Stalin's crimes.

Korov's assassination was used by Stalin as the excuse for launching the great purge of the 1930s.

The Russians have broadly hinted, and Western historians have generally believed, that Stalin had Kirov murdered because he was a threat to Stalin's leadership.

No Examination

Khrushchev said in his "secret speech" that there were many "inexplicable and mysterious" circumstances in Kirov's murder which "demand a most careful examination." But nothing happened.

Articles on Kirov in Pravda and other papers Sunday—marking his 60th birthday—did not discuss his death.

Some communist sources contend Khrushchev went too far in blaming Stalin for crimes without crediting him with some good.

But, in the opinion of some informed quarters, the clues now available indicate that the new line will probably ignore a lot of awkward history about Stalin.

The apparent dropping of any investigation into Kirov's death was one sign. Others have come in articles published recently by Soviet historians.

CUDAHY HOG BUYER . . .

Instructs Financial Leaders

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Star Farm Editor

Two hogs may weigh the same, but when it comes to quality they can be as different as day and night.

This was a point that received special emphasis from Fritz Johnson of Omaha, head hog buyer for Cudahy Packing Co., as he instructed some 350 financial leaders interested in agriculture on the kind of live animals that mean increased profits to their owners.

Johnson, participating in the first annual Chuck Wagon Roundup to "see" and "hear" what's new in livestock and agriculture held at Ak-Sar-Ben Field and sponsored by the First National Bank of Omaha, told a large group of bankers that many farmers jumping into the hog business now will be heading for trouble with the wrong type of hogs.

Told Bankers
Johnson told the bankers, "Everybody and his brother is jumping into the hog business now and one of the danger signs comes when you see large groups of poor producing hogs coming to market in groups that lack gilts among them.

"This means that someone is keeping those poor type gilts to get into the hog business, and this is the first fellow to get into trouble," added Johnson.

Johnson who is credited with being "one of the veterans" in hog buying with hundreds of thousands of hogs having passed his critical purchasing approval warns that the poorest hog can be more costly to produce than the good hammed hog with a large loin eye and small amount of backfat that means better meat cuts for the consumer with less waste.

Johnson stresses the importance of a farmer selecting the right kind of breeding stock and then matching the hog production with correct feeding and disease control.

Estimates 25%
He estimates that only 25% of the top hog producers are completely conscious of all phases of swine production as related to breeding, feeding, disease, and management.

For his discussion Johnson used two gilts that weighed the same but that illustrated the type of hog in demand and the one that "probably took much longer to produce at a higher cost with less desirable cuts."

It just adds up to this in the hog business, says Johnson: "If an animal has what it takes it is going to do the job for you."

Those in the business of making agriculture loans have an excellent opportunity to encourage the selection of the right kind of breeding stock, Johnson believes.

When it comes to returning money on investment Johnson doesn't believe it is possible to get higher interest than having the kind of hogs the packer likes to pay top market prices for when they reach the market.

"A livestock man is in the business to make money so he had better start with the kind of hogs capable of doing the job," says Johnson. He stresses strong topped hogs with a straight underline and hams that are close down to the hock.

"The secret to getting the right kind comes from selection," Johnson reminded the audience.

JOHNSON SAYS . . . hog buyers like this kind of pork.

Peace Corps Requests Volunteers For Varied Agricultural Assignment

Sixteen developing nations have requested Peace Corps agricultural Volunteers for summer assignments Cyril Bish, agricultural extension agent, announced Monday.

Current requests for agricultural volunteers more than double those of past years. This increased demand reflects the critical food situation in many areas of the world.

For an example, in India alone between 15 and 20 million—twice the population of New York City—are threatened by famine this year. Unless something is done—and soon—experts predict the next ten years will become the "Decade of Famine."

Training programs for ten countries in Latin America, four in Africa and two in Asia get underway this summer. These programs include volunteers for Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guinea, Honduras, India, Morocco, Nepal, Nigeria, Peru and Venezuela.

These countries have requested volunteers for a wide variety of assignments utilizing every type of agricultural background.

Rural youth, farmers and retired farmers are especially needed for these programs. Rural young people with FFA backgrounds are needed to help develop youth clubs, while volunteers with practical farming will work directly with farmers in villages encouraging improved farming methods.

Farrowings Increase 5% Since January

Sow farrowings in Nebraska during the three-month period between Dec. 1 and Feb. 28 were five per cent more numerous than a year earlier, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics reported.

The total for the recent quarter was $6,000 compared with 91,000 a year earlier and a 1960-61 average for the period of 91,000.

As of March 1, Nebraska farmers reported intentions to farrow 249,000 litters during March, April and May, or 10% more than the 226,000 in the same period last year.

Hogs and pigs on Nebraska farms on March 1 were estimated at 2,434,000 head, up one per cent from the 2,410,000 head on hand a year earlier.

In another report the division said Nebraska last year produced $1,692,000 worth of wool, down 21% from the $2,147,000 value of the clip in 1964.

The 1965 wool clip totaled 3,759,000 pounds, down 11% from the previous year and 19% below the 5-year 1960-64 average of 4,661,000 pounds. Fleece weight averaged eight pounds, compared with 7.7 in 1964.

By Glenn Kreuscher, Farm Editor

This past week it was quite a treat to sit right smack in the middle of one of the largest meeting halls in Chicago and hear farmers from Alaska to Texas and from California to New York discuss the factors behind the nation's milk supply.

It was the 26th annual meeting of the American Dairy Association, the organization that is the voice of the dairy farmer in the nation's market place.

Since I think it is most vital to attend a meeting of national scope every once in a while to see how Nebraska compares with other areas, I welcomed the opportunity to participate in this meeting.

Set Pattern
One of the big jobs of the organization was to set the pattern for the coming year's operation where dairy farmers spend near $8 million annually to tell the consumer about dairy products.

Seated on the important delegate body were three Nebraskans: Norris Otto of Phillips; Edward Andersen of Waterloo; and Milton Blitscher of Falls City.

Others from Nebraska included Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wellman, Exeter; Robert Koehler, Fremont; Ernest Gudenschlager, Oakland; Gib Millnitz, Plainview; Roy Wagner, Pierce; and Sam Lewis, Daykin.

One thing you couldn't miss in any session of the convention was that production dropped off in most every area last year and that dairymen had lost some excellent future prospective leadership by young people moving off to town as the nation awakened each morning with an increase in population equivalent to that of a large county seat town.

Just Complaining
Farmers who used to be accused of just complaining go after today's problems with all the ammunition utilized by other business and industry. Heading the advertising program for the dairymen is the same firm that assists one of the nation's largest automobile manufacturers and a familiar name in the manufacture of farm implements. I was told by officials of the dairy group it represented the nation's largest advertising organization.

The dairymen have made such a detailed study of the consumer that they have established the fact that the average homemaker spends 27 minutes on each supermarket trip, that 93% of the foodshoppers pass the dairy case and that 78% of the shoppers buy one or more dairy items.

Dairy products long considered an item delivered to the home are being purchased in increased amounts at the supermarket shelf.

American Dairy Association studies show that nearly 30% of the dairy items are now purchased by the consumer on trips to the store.

The once huge dairy surplus stocks are now only memories and one of the points of discussion during the meeting was "how much should be spent on foreign market development."

Promotion Powder
It was the consensus of many speakers that the promotion powder better be kept pretty dry and that where dairymen had their foot in the door on foreign markets it might be advisable to maintain contacts for future sales.

Some of the items getting attention in research described by Dr. D. H. Jacobsen, director of product development for the ADA included: Development of a peanut flavored ice cream; high temperature processing to give more shelf life to products; new flavors for butter and cottage cheese, and the development of other dairy products for the mixed food and bakery industries.

Research reports termed the "snack market" the fastest growing area in food purchases and the dairymen believe that with dips, cheese, ice cream and milk drinks they stand a good chance of getting a big share of this fourth meal that is fast edging breakfast as one of the important meals for all ages.

The dairy researchers are working hard to assist milk in stepping out of character to become more of a social beverage.

Seventy-nine percent of the future dairy growth is expected from 12 states, Nebraska and Kansas are listed as potential sources for future dairy growth.

Milk which used to be marketed very near to its source is now a product which is moving hundreds of miles to markets and surveys show it is moving three times as far as a few years earlier.

In between dairy sessions we found time for the 8th annual Chicago World Flower and Garden Show that is something really "out of this world" in displays of full blooming gardens, flower arrangements and table settings created around the theme "America The Beautiful."

The event which is a year-round project involving the talents of thousands of persons takes place one week annually in Chicago's mammoth McCormick Place.

You only have to mention the flower, rose, or tree and you will find it in this expansive show that displays formal gardens reminiscent of all areas in the history of America. Imagine the efforts of landscape architects, nurserymen, greenhouse operators, floral specialists and others to put the hundreds of thousands of plants in full bloom for the week's show.

The show also featured "This Garden England" a color film tour of the British countryside in full spring bloom that had its first public showing in America.

Gun Battle Kills 11

Tehran, Iran (AP)—Eleven persons were killed and 56 wounded in a gun battle following a tribal dispute in southwest Iran, the newspaper Ettelaat reported.

By DR. KEITH GREGORY
Acting Center Director

Development of a U.S. Meat Animal Research Center near Clay Center is expected to get started soon.

The facility is being developed on approximately 35,000 acres of land at the site of the Naval Ammunition Depot near Hastings by the Animal Husbandry Research Division of the Agricultural Research Service.

Poultry Expert Outlines Diseases Damaging Shells

At least four diseases can contribute to poor egg shell quality, a University of Nebraska poultry scientist told those attending a poultry conference at the Nebraska Center here.

Dr. Glenn Froning cited research showing that bronchitis, Newcastle disease, laryngotracheitis, and intestinal coccidiosis, affect egg shell quality in various ways and for varying lengths of time.

Outbreaks of some diseases may permanently damage key structures in the hen which are essential to production of normal eggs, Dr. Froning said.

When this occurs, it may be necessary to sell the existing flock and start with new stock. In other cases, poor egg shell quality may persist for several months after other effects of a disease onslaught have passed and the hen apparently has returned to normal.

Egg shells may be bleached, thin, rough or misshapen after a hen has had a bout with bronchitis, Dr. Froning reported. Birds infected with Newcastle disease often lay eggs which are soft-shelled and irregularly shaped.

vice, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

It will be operated cooperatively by USDA with the University of Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station and other interested land grant university agricultural experiment stations.

Land Transferred

Approximately 10,000 acres of land have been transferred by the General Services Administration from the Naval Ammunition Depot to the USDA. It is anticipated that the remaining 25,000 acres will be transferred in the near future.

Construction at the Depot has been outlined under Phase 1— involving facilities for a research program to be carried out by the Animal Husbandry Research Division and the Market Quality Research Division of Agricultural Research Service.

The total research program planned for the Center by the three USDA divisions will involve basic and applied research programs with beef cattle, sheep and swine.

Research will be designed to obtain information leading to more efficient meat animal production and improvement in meat quality or desirability.

Studies Made

Studies by the Animal Husbandry Research Division will involve genetics and breeding and physiology and biochemistry of reproduction, growth, fattening, feed utilization and other factors.

Studies by the Agricultural Engineering Research Division will be oriented toward environmental factors affecting production efficiency, including housing and the specific effects of temperature-humidity variations on animal performance.

The activities of the Market Quality Research Division will be aimed at identifying and evaluating factors that influence meat quality or palatability.

Thus, the programs planned are comprehensive in nature, including both basic and applied studies involving production efficiency and meat quality considerations.

Hens Punch Out

The USDA is pulling a speedup on working hens. It usually takes a hen slightly more than 24 hours to produce an egg. Scientists at Beltsville, Md., are trying to find ways to reduce that time. In the process, they have the hens "punching a time clock"— an electronic computer records the exact time each hen lays her egg.

Bequests To Dana College Include Private Collections

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Blair—Though private colleges like Dana readily accept—yes, solicit—gifts and bequests, the acceptance and use thereof is not always as simple as it may seem.

Checks translate roughly and quickly into ever-needed cash, but not everything comes in the form of a colored piece of paper with Some-where National Bank printed at the top.

Last December's mail brought to Dana College three wooden crates full of stamps.

There were 17 volumes filed and cataloged in collectors' albums plus about 200 envelopes of sheets, plate blocks and loose first issues—worth about $1,200 at face value with no present value as collector's items—several American and Danish Christmas seals and four or five boxes of loose stamps from all over the world.

Their total value has been roughly estimated at $5,000, disclosed Paul Pagel, who involuntarily heads the miscellaneous bequests department.

Evaluate Collection

The Dana public relations director said an Omaha collector is currently attempting to evaluate the collection and expects to spend a year at it.

The pile of postage—plus $3,000 cash—came to the school from the estate of George and Alvina Reinhardt of Albuquerque, N.M., and, stranger still, no records have been found to connect either of the deceased with the school.

Similarly, gifts began arriving in 1960 from Miss Helen Hansen of Sacramento, Calif., who also has no known relationship to the college.

But in 1962 the postal department delivered a 10-pound package containing a metal box full of old coins.

Thumbing through them in his spare time, Pagel found the oldest to be an India trading company's token dated 785 A.D. Others carry engravings of Danish and other European kings, insignia of Asian origin and dates up through the late 1800's.

No attempt has been made yet to evaluate the coin collection—or find a use for it.

"We don't know whether to sell these things or keep them," said Pagel. "We might just use some of the stamps for postage."

Other miscellanies—including half of a Chicagoan's collection of antique brass, Danish plaques and a Danish flag—have found a home in a glass-enclosed case on the top level of the library stacks.

Librarian Guards

Head librarian, Miss A. D. Hordahl, also jealously guards a solid wall of old gift books, the eldest of which was authored by one Meffreth, entitled "Sermones" and dated 1467.

Students and professors—particularly in religion and English—use the collection of Bibles and rare literature for research.

"Many of the donors were immigrants who had a great respect for the printed word," explained Miss Hordahl. "They just can't make themselves throw away old books."

She also has her library walls adorned with African spears and artifacts and a Japanese scroll, gifts of Dana-educated missionaries.

"We're always glad to get these things," noted Pagel, "especially the Danish objects."

"We'll just have to keep them and wait for the time we get a new library building incorporating a place to display them."

Top Pigs Move Into Testing Station

Clarkson —Parlor-like facilities are greeting pigs moving into the environmental swine testing station near Clarkson.

Manager Louis Sindelar said the objective is to help the breeder develop a well-planned program on the farm.

He said the station will enable Nebraska breeders to compare their pigs with those of other producers.

Sindelar said these standards have been set up for the Clarkson station:

- A minimum gain of 170 pounds per day.
- Maximum feed efficiency of 1.25 inch backfat unless dairy gain is two pounds or more; then it is 1.35 inch.
- Minimum of 3.5 square inch loin eye, if the littermate boar is allowed to sell.

Humidity and temperature are controlled automatically. Walls, partitions, and floors in the test-pens are concrete. In all, there are 52 pens for the animals.

Test animals at the station represent the towns and cities of Beemer, Bloomfield, Creston, Norfolk, Grand Island, Wasau and Battle Creek.

Breeds for testing so far are Hampshire, Duroc, Poland China, Yorkshire, Spotted Poland China and Landrace.

Ak-Sar-Ben Pays Way

Omaha—Twenty high-ranking Future Farmers of America students will receive $25 from Ak-Sar-Ben toward his expenses in attending the State FFA Convention in Lincoln on March 31, April 1 and 2.

$10,000 For 'Swans'

Paris (UPI) — A painting by the late Sir Winston Churchill was sold here for $10,000. The painting, entitled "The Black Swans," was bought by an agent for an unnamed American collector.

A Hot Summer Day

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A brief news story from Georgia might have caught the fancy of the people of Nebraska at this time of year. It was an account of an elderly man who, walking across the street, became stuck in the hot tar and could not move. He explained with some embarrassment to several men who helped him out of his predicament how helpless he felt.

While recognizing the man's embarrassment, his situation calls to our mind a condition that would be most welcome. In this part of the country we are rather anxiously looking forward to the days of summer heat.

It will not be long, for instance, before lawn sprinklers will be doing more than watering the lawn. They will be a source of great enjoyment to children running through them, regardless of the dress in which they might be attired. It doesn't require a swimming suit to make good use of a lawn sprinkler.

Part of the joy of summer for the young is its informality. If fully clothed, you can still run under the sprinkler and if lucky be completely dry before an adult discovers what you have done. Mothers and fathers, it seems, have an aversion to baths of any kind when the attire is street clothes. That may be fine for Mother and Father but the children see no logic in it at all.

One does not find the actual tar these days that once was so common on our streets. The real tar street is actually pretty rare these days, with modern street improvements giving way to asphalt. Asphalt is a poor substitute for tar when it comes to having a good time. Tar can be picked up and rolled into balls that can be thrown at targets and even people while asphalt is too sticky and not pliable enough. One would not want to throw a very large piece of tar at anyone else but a pea-sized ball of tar can do little harm while providing an outlet for considerable energy. Tar in the laundry, however, is another irritant to parents. It gets there by the same route traveled by rocks, pennies, gum, paper, etc.—through the pockets of boys' jeans.

Issue Won't Vanish

Any candidate for major public office at the state level who thinks that taxation is not a major issue is likely to be convinced to the contrary before this year's elections are over. Proof of this is found in the recent meeting before University of Nebraska Young Republicans of four Republican candidates for lieutenant governor.

Reports on the meeting showed that considerable time was spent in the field of taxation. Two candidates, Mrs. Fern Hubbard Orme and Kenneth Bowen, both state senators, are broadened tax base advocates. The other two candidates, Edwin Hart of Lincoln and John Everrood of Omaha, are status quo on the tax base while advocating greater efficiency in government.

But even greater efficiency in government can hardly be discussed without a good look at taxation. It is significant, too, that the issue is a major one in the race for lieutenant governor. While the record and attitudes of these candidates are vital to voters, the office is not one through which significant influence can be brought to bear on the tax question.

Rather, the office is more in the nature of an administrative one as opposed to policy-making. If voters are concerned about the tax attitudes of candidates for lieutenant governor, and it seems they are, then they will certainly want to know the attitude of the candidates for governor. On the Democratic side, such candidates are already known as broadened tax base advocates but the Republican slate presents an unknown picture.

It is difficult to see how the GOP candidates for governor can expect the kind of support they want without making their tax positions clear.

The Dreadful Storm

A late winter storm in Nebraska that can run up a death toll of more than twenty as did the storm last week speaks of tragedy in a somber sense.

It was a deadly storm, similar in many respects to the famous blizzard of '83. There was hard driven snow borne by gale winds, but it was not excessively cold. And it was over in 24 hours. The spring sun and temperatures close to 50 degrees were swiftly sweeping away its vestiges before the week was over. It was preceded by a fortnight of balmy weather. Spring farm work was underway and the golf courses were full a day or two before the storm hit. Yet more than 20 died and the storm, as brief as it was, must go down as one of the most damaging in recent years.

We know of no one who froze to death. The fatalities came from exposure, from asphyxiation, suffocation and exhaustion.

That Intangible Tax Law

The Nebraska Legislative Council at week's end heard another attack on the state's intangible tax law.

This time it was bankers. They said several hundred millions of bank deposits are withdrawn at tax time every year. They said it caused great injury to banking and has contributed to the less-than-normal growth rate of Nebraska banks.

The bankers also asserted that many Nebraskans ship their money out of the state. The economies of other states are thereby benefited, but the Nebraska economy is hurt.

This should not be interpreted that Nebraska has an unusually large number of cheaters. Most of these devices are not contrary to law.

The fault lies within the law itself. Its motives are cloudy and unbusinesslike. Its methods lack common sense. It was written by men who knew little or nothing about finance, with the assistance of some who knew enough to get their own interests preserved. The law is unjust to those who pay the tax. As a tax measure it has never been successful.

It will provide no answer simply to void the law. The wealth it is supposed to reach should be subject to tax. But a law that does not reach it defeats the whole purpose of taxation. It also stands in the place of a better law.

There are better points at which to approach intangible wealth and there certainly are more just methods. And there are also ways in which the state will be relieved of its economic suffering.

It would be a happy day if the Legislative Council took a fresh view of the subject, returning to the next legislature with proposals that will do what this present miscast law cannot do.

The family washing machine can produce all sorts of surprises. After washing a batch of duck clothing, including jeans, the following batch of white clothing comes out with a faded green tint. This is because the jeans in the first load contained green paper which worked its way out of the pockets and stayed in the machine after the first washing. At other times, the papers will become shredded during the first washing, covering everything done with a kind of paper lint that is most difficult to eliminate. When a strange noise is heard in the washing machine, one's first inclination is that something has gone wrong with the mechanism. This often proves to be wrong.

What has happened is that a penny has fallen out of a pants pocket and is rattling around in the bottom of the machine. Candy and gum in a pocket make a lovely mess in the washing machine producing a sticky mass that requires considerable effort for removal. But of course, those are the things for which pockets are made.

Along with water and tar comes a whole multitude of other things with the changing from winter to spring and then to summer. The great run will soon be on for tennis shoes and T-shirts. One of the more unfortunate things about growing up is the adult disfavor with these items of apparel. As an adult, you can hardly run around in tennis shoes and a T-shirt, unless you are a little old lady.

Such things were just made for children. The tennis shoe is a durable piece of goods as it can take most anything and still be easily cleaned up. The mud doesn't have to be cleaned off; it can just be washed off, preferably by wading in a creek. The tennis shoes will then dry out and be as good as new, not all stiff and in need of polishing as is the case with the more formal leather shoes. Tennis shoes are a great help in climbing, too, giving good footing in trees, on rooftops, etc. The T-shirt is such a blessing because it is quick and easy—can be slipped on and off in a hurry and washes in a breeze. The more traditional kind of shirt with buttons just can't compare to the T-shirt.

All of this and more are just around the corner for us. It is enough to make old hearts young and certainly makes young hearts glad. We wouldn't want to be stuck in the paving in the middle of an intersection but it will be welcome when the footing is soft rather than hard.

One does not find the actual tar these days that once was so common on our streets. The real tar street is actually pretty rare these days, with modern street improvements giving way to asphalt. Asphalt is a poor substitute for tar when it comes to having a good time. Tar can be picked up and rolled into balls that can be thrown at targets and even people while asphalt is too sticky and not pliable enough. One would not want to throw a very large piece of tar at anyone else but a pea-sized ball of tar can do little harm while providing an outlet for considerable energy. Tar in the laundry, however, is another irritant to parents. It gets there by the same route traveled by rocks, pennies, gum, paper, etc.—through the pockets of boys' jeans.

DREW PEARSON

Joint Chiefs Differ With The President

WASHINGTON—The rumbling sound that comes from across the Potomac is the barely suppressed muttering of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Pentagon. This low-keyed thunder out of the military establishment underscores the half-suppressed war within a war that is part of the tangled web of Viet Nam.

Whether this portends a crisis in the direction of the war is what many observers are beginning to ask. The Joint Chiefs insist that they cannot win the war with the restraints imposed by policy set in the White House. They believe it is imperative to bomb installations in and around the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi and the port of Haiphong and at the same time, although there are differences on this score, to mine Haiphong harbor.

The JCS are acutely sensitive to the needling of Gen. Curtis LeMay and Gen. Thomas Power, both now retired from the Air Force where they were unremitting advocates of bombing everywhere and anywhere. So you think you can win a war with one hand tied behind your back, is the taunt.

So far these are subterranean noises. They have an echo in Sen. Richard Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, but that is a natural phenomenon that never fails. In short, the confrontation between the commander-in-chief and his chiefs is not a direct one.

The reason, of course, is the hard-pressed secretary of defense, Robert S. McNamara. He has come closer than any secretary to imposing civilian control over the vast military apparatus, with spending set for the coming fiscal year at $60 billion. He speaks to the President for the Pentagon.

But as a kind of dam—a filter is the word some Pentagon critics apply—McNamara finds it increasingly difficult to resist the big-brother pressures from both his own establishment and from Capitol Hill. The fly boys and the aircraft manufacturers are a powerful combination. They exploit the popular mythology expressed in the conviction of the effectiveness of pinpoint bombing and a quick and comparatively painless victory through air power.

President Johnson, determined to hold the present status which he considers middle of the road, is in a bind. One thing most of his associates agree on is that the President finds the incessantly mounting demands of the war galling in the extreme. Sensitive to the play of public opinion, he is aware of deeply conflicting views—find a compromise way out on the one hand and get it over with quick on the other.

MARQUIS CHILDS

India-U.S. Talks Will Begin Today

WASHINGTON — Lyndon Johnson, whose chief knowledge of India in the past has been that you kiss your bride and give a Texas yippee on the steps of the Taj Mahal, today sits down to confer with the lady prime minister of India — alone.

Nothing romantic will result from this diplomatic tryst. It's just that Lyndon always believes in personal salesmanship, especially when both parties speak English, and Mrs. Indira Gandhi speaks it with an Oxford accent probably more correct than Lyndon's Texas drawl.

So, in order to get better acquainted with the prime minister, without third-party encumbrances, he has requested that they be alone.

The two heads of state who sit opposite each other are both strong-willed people. The President's will power, his determination to succeed are already well known to the American people. Mrs. Gandhi's are not. But somewhat like the President, these are her chief stock-in-trade.

She is neither overly able nor overly brilliant. But she has two great assets: She is extremely popular with the Indian people, and she has great personal strength.

When the Calcutta rioters got out of hand, she sent word that she was willing to listen to any grievance if presented peacefully, but that she was not going to be influenced by force. If the riots continued, she warned, the rioters would be shot.

The riots did not continue, and Mrs. Gandhi's stock went up with the Indian people. They knew a prime minister had taken office who intended to be prime minister.

The politicians also realize that Mrs. Gandhi can be tough. She has already made it clear that she is not a figurehead to serve out Shastri's unexpired term, but intends to serve a full term as prime minister.

Here again she parallels Lyndon Johnson. Many White House visitors complain that when they see Lyndon Johnson they can only express a few minutes of their views as against a torrent of conversation from him. But in Mrs. Gandhi's case, Lyndon will doubtless listen.

The basic background of their discussion will be the fact that the one represents the world's most powerful nation, economically and militarily, while the other represents the world's second most populous nation, somewhat neglected by the United States.

In the back of Mrs. Gandhi's mind, as she talks, will be the fact that there are only four important nations in Asia: China, with 700 million people; India, with 500 million; Indonesia, next in size, and Japan, the strongest industrial power in the Far East. Yet the United States is concentrating billions of dollars and most of its trained military might on a tiny nation of 14 million.

The Indians, like all of our allies, have thought this was a grave mistake.

EDWARD BARNARD

Profiles In Science

Edward Barnard was born in Tennessee in 1857. After the Civil War, while still a boy, he worked as a photographer's apprentice and his skill as a photographer later stood him in good stead when he took up astronomy as a life work.

When Barnard finished school, he got a job as director of the new Vanderbilt University observatory in his home town, Nashville, but he did not stay there long. In 1887 he left Vanderbilt and went to the Lick Observatory of the University of California. Most of his professional life was spent there and at the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory. He was professor of astronomy at Chicago when he died in 1923.

Barnard is famous for his discovery of no fewer than 16 comets, but in 1883 he also discovered that Beta Capricorni, formerly thought to be one star, was really two stars circling around each other. He determined this by measuring the slight "perturbations" or apparent irregularities in the movements. This was and is a difficult thing to determine, and with the instruments Barnard had to work with, it was an especially noteworthy feat of astronomy.

Barnard was also known for his early work studying the odd spots and markings in the optical view of the planet Jupiter. In 1882 he spent many days studying comets, discovering several companion comets to the great one that passed by the earth that year.

At Lick Observatory with their 12 and 36-inch telescopes he discovered more comets, companions to Brook's Comet and made new observations of the "surface" of Venus, Mars and other planets.

What he saw of Venus, of course, was not the surface, since that planet is covered with clouds of dust or opaque gas.

It was while he was with the University of California that he began photographing the night sky with an old lens that had once been in a portrait camera. With this lens he made the first photographs of the gas clouds in the Milky Way and photographed Swift's comet. He was the first to discover a comet by photography.

In 1892 Barnard discovered the fifth moon of Jupiter, which was like finding a needle in a haystack. This moon is very small, indeed, and very close to Jupiter. It travels around that enormous planet once every 12 hours, only 67,000 miles away.

Barnard was one of the most honored American astronomers and was the recipient of the medals of American, British, French and Canadian learned societies.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Thinking In More Than One Way

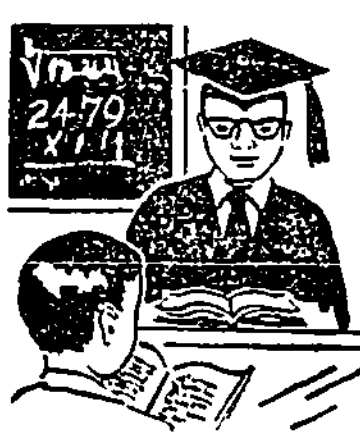

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Children should learn to think in more than one way.

Creative thinking and the encouragement of ingenuity in the solution of problems are now being emphasized by educators. Experiments have shown that children who receive systematic practice in thinking up new and different solutions to problems become more proficient at this type of thinking; thus, their creativity is said to be developed.

But other types of thinking must also be taught. Because if all learning were to be attacked as a series of unique experience in which the student strives for creative solutions, the task would be overwhelming. There is too much to be learned.

There is a place for conformity in thinking. Unfortunately, conformity has become a bad word in some educational circles. It is contended that insistence upon conformity squelches initiative, creativity and ingenuity. But there are situations in which conformity in thinking has advantages. One of these is in the use of arithmetic, attempt was unsuccessful. While his daily arithmetic work usually received an "A" grade, he failed his examinations.

His father felt that the school was testing Jim on the wrong things; that Jim's failure on examinations was the fault of the examinations rather than of Jim.

The father overlooked the fact that mathematics is a tool. Properly used, it makes the solution of many routine problems almost automatic. Conformity—if understanding and using the solutions suggested in the textbook and by the teachers is conformity—should in no way inhibit Jim's creativity. This can be fostered in a more appropriate situation.

How Jim thinks as he studies his arithmetic, as he learns to read or as he studies science and history, should have been the business of the school from the beginning.

Schools must be aware of the processes the students are using in thinking and, in each case, encourage the appropriate type of thinking.

BOB CONSIDINE

Two Days Of Jolly Good Texas Fun

NEW YORK—"This is the wild and woolly trip that is just right for you!" begins a note from Liz Carpenter, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's secretary. Enclosed is an invitation to join First Lady Bird (for $275, that is) on her two-day visit to the Big Bend National Park in Southwest Texas April 2-4.

Mrs. Stewart L. Udall is going to be along, too, as well as just about every star in Who's Who in Women's Journalism except Shirley Povich of the Washington Post. Shirley will still be covering the baseball training camps.

According to a prospectus, here are some of the goodies in store for Mrs. Johnson: A day-long float trip down the Rio Grande by rubber raft . . . three meals prepared by the Odessa, Texas, Chuck Wagon Gang (an organization of businessmen who enjoy outdoor cooking as a hobby) . . . the planting of a tree by Lynda Bird . . . a serenade by The Chordsmen, San Antonio Barber Shop Chorus . . . and three Mexican dinners.

A morale-building leaflet about the huge primeval preserve contains a passage simply titled "Precautions." Dandies from same: "High water is a threat during the rainy season. Be watchful for washouts during and after storms. When driving at night, be alert for wildlife on the roads. Do not swim in the river. Beware the cactus! Their spines can inflict painful injury. If you must go out at night, walk carefully, carry a flashlight, and do not go far abroad. "In the desert, carry drinking water . . . The park's only common poisonous reptiles are rattlesnakes . . . The bites of tarantulas and lizards may be painful, not fatal, but these animals will not bother you unless you annoy them . . . Nor should the occasional scorpion alarm you, though a sting should receive prompt attention . . . There are no doctors or nurses in the park. Carry your own first-aid supplies, including tweezers for extracting cactus spines . . .

Have a peachy time, girls. And be sure to write.

Hate Drive May Cause Escalation

... BY CHINESE

Manila (AP)—A Philippine woman senator just back from Communist China says Peking's internal "hate America" campaign could be a force escalating the war in Viet Nam.

Sen. Maria Kalaw Katigbak made the statement in an article she wrote for Sunday's edition of the Manila Times. Her eight-day visit to Red China attracted wide attention here because the Philippines does not recognize Peking and Sen. Katigbak was the first Philippine citizen of any official standing to visit the mainland since the Communists seized power.

Sen. Katigbak told a Manila news conference Thursday shortly after her return that she had been told by Foreign Minister Chen Yi that U.S. bombing of Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital, would be a prelude to an American attack on the Chinese mainland.

She wrote in the Times that "the theme of hatred for American imperialists" permeated Red China.

"A national unifying result is built up by this continuous representation of a common enemy so strong, so vicious," she said. "... with all this show of hate I wonder if it will still be possible to prevent the war from escalating."

The senator said she was confining her report to personal impressions because she was in China only eight days, speak no Chinese and visited only a few cities.

"The people don't look hungry or poorly dressed," she said. "The stores were stacked with food and ordinary household goods. The progress in agricultural production techniques can easily be appreciated by anyone who has lived on the farm."

She said irrigation ditches, dikes and canals were, however, being built by hand labor.

"I was informed by members of our delegation that industrial plants they visited were still elementary in know-how but were functioning well," she added.

"Art as such still flourishes. Is recognized and is patronized," she said. "... but the themes are always one and only one: Mao and the revolution. What a pity. Such excellence of technique to be thus so limited."

Red Chinese Rally Boosts U.S. Protests

Tokyo (AP)—A rally held in Peking Sunday to express support for "the American people's struggle against U.S. imperialist aggression in Viet Nam," Peking's New China News Agency reported.

The broadcast heard here said 16,000 people, including friends from more than 40 countries, took part in the rally. Marshal Chu Teh, chairman of the National People's Congress (parliament), and Kuo Mo-Jo, chairman of the China Peace Committee, headed the list of Chinese who attended.

Liao Cheng-chih, vice chairman of the China Peace Committee, addressed the rally and said Communist China admires and firmly supports the anti-Viet Nam war movement in the United States.

"This once again demonstrates that on the Viet Nam question the American people stand on the side of the Vietnamese people and not on the side of the U.S. government," he was quoted as saying.

"That the broad masses of the American people have arisen against the imperialism of their own country is something unprecedented in United States history. It is a new phenomenon arising on the American horizon."

NCNA said among foreign speakers who addressed the rally was Nancy Milton, described as "an American friend."

(She was not further described nor was her hometown given.)

She was quoted as saying that the present anti-war movement in the United States "is the key which is beginning to open the way to clearer analysis of all the basic problems which plague America—not only war, but poverty, unemployment, inflation, oppression of the Negro people, denial of the intellectual freedom and the total commercialization of human life."

H-Bomb Recovery Now More Difficult

Palomares Beach, Spain (AP)—An official announcement Sunday confirmed that the U.S. H-Bomb found in 2,500 feet of water off this coast, has shifted into a new position, "making the next recovery attempt even more difficult and lengthy."

The shift resulted from the snapping of a lift line caught in an anchor fluke during the initial attempt to shift the bomb from the side of a 70-degree slope.

A statement from Rear Adm. William S. Guest, commanding the naval task force here, did not say how far the bomb had moved but its tone indicated the bomb had fallen deeper into the sea. The statement said:

"The commander of Task Force 65 advises that in the first attempt to recover the object with parachute attached in the waters off Palomares, Spain, the lift line parted as a result of having become caught and cut by the fluke of an anchor which was part of the recovery rig."

"The object and parachute are still in the same area, but have moved from the position in which they were originally located, making the next recovery attempt even more difficult and lengthy."

Officials ashore would not indicate when the next attempt to pull out the bomb might start but expressed belief the job might be done "in a matter of days."

There was a sharp reversal in the weather and in the morale of the recovery group. The wind was up again, the seas becoming choppy, and there was no sign of activity visible from the shore.

Reliable sources said specialists attached to the deep-diving submarine Albatross were unhappy because their vessel had been kept on stand-by assignment with most of the recovery work going to the Navy's Alvin, a smaller research sub.

The bomb fell into the sea after the plane carrying it collided in flight Jan. 17 with a refueling plane. It was not found until March 15.

Two Men Miss Jail Sentences; Arrested Again

Los Angeles (UPI)—Two men sentenced to serve 10 weekends in county jail failed to appear this weekend, but they had an excuse.

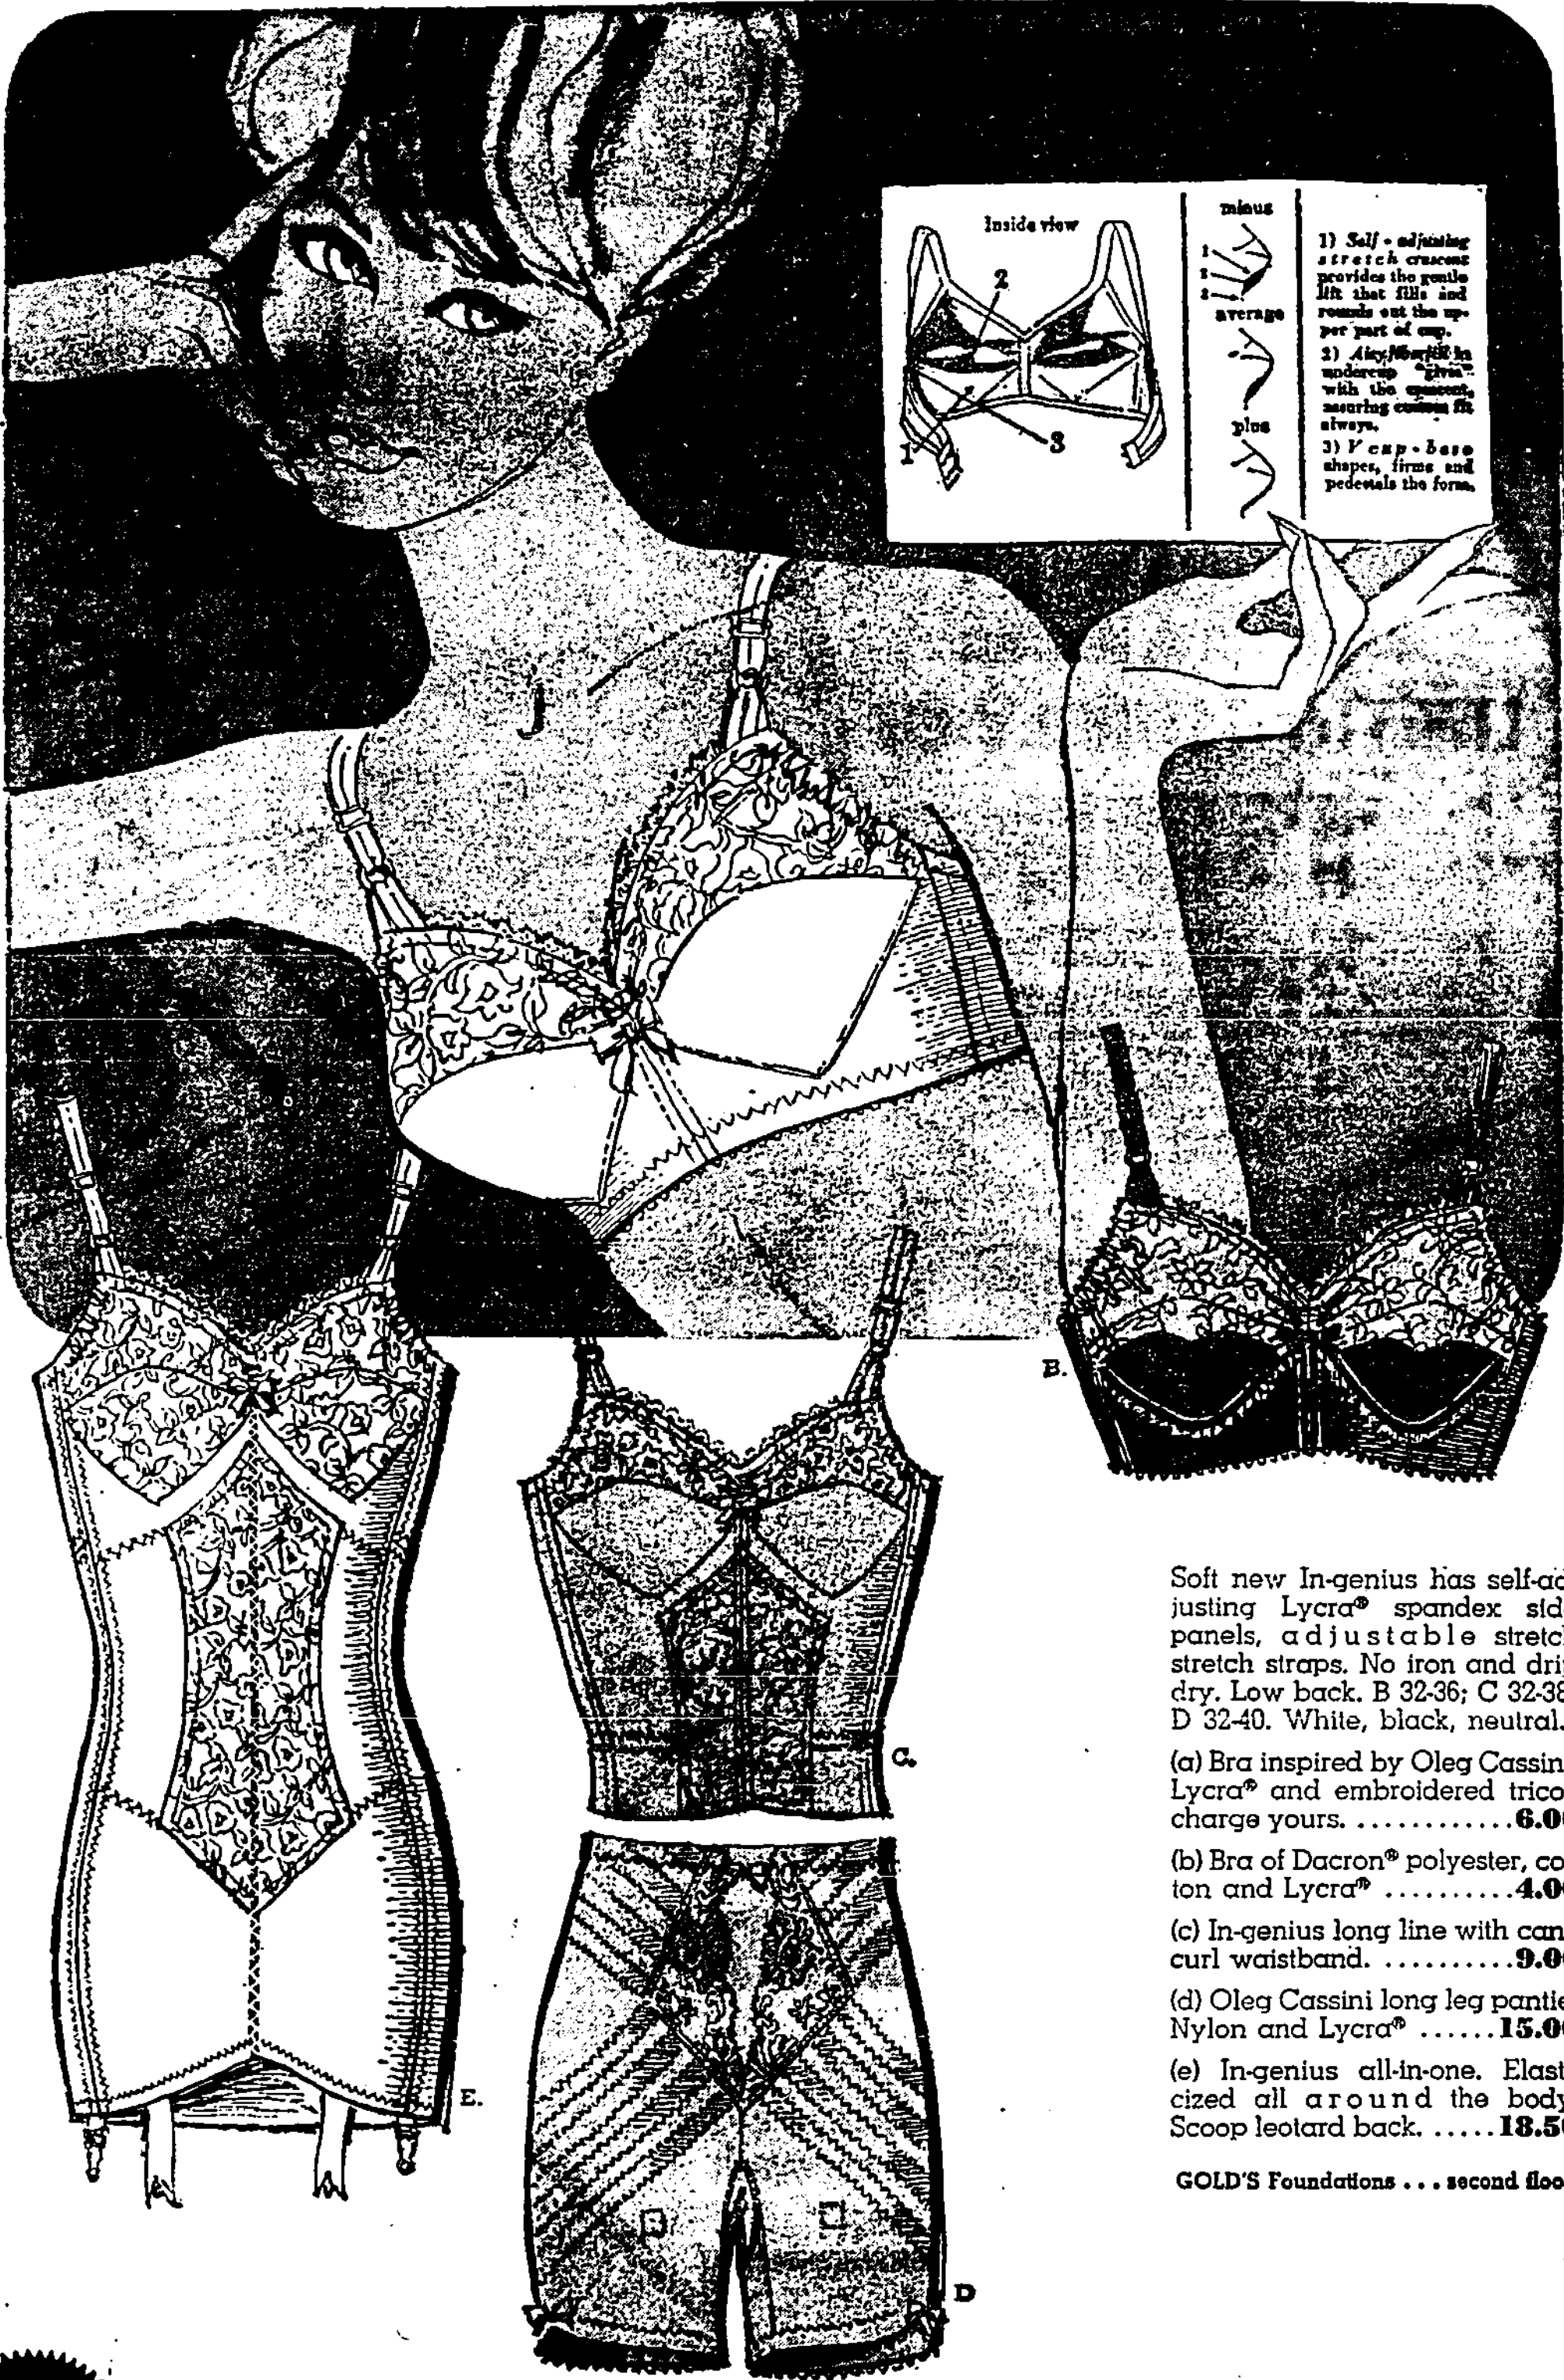

They were in jail in nearby Beverly Hills.

The two, Gary Davis, 37, and Nolan Walker, 27, had been arrested along with two women companions shortly after they allegedly terrorized three persons during a robbery attempt at a home. All four were booked on suspicion of robbery.

Davis and Walker had been supposed to report to jail here to serve the third weekend of a petty theft sentence.

Spring is in our backyard. Spring in the air that blows through the open doors. Spring in the garden. The Siamese cat rolls on the warm sidewalk, a sure sign of the season.

Along with the blooming daffodils comes The Man From Uncle. Uncle Sugar, that is The blooming Federal bagman.

"Do not use lines 11 a, b, c, or d. Enter tax on line 12."

The curious thing is we have various incomes. We list "gross income." We have "net income." We have "taxable income."

None of these has any resemblance to what actually came in. I mean it is laughable to say I had my pinkies on the money they say I had.

If I had laid hands on that kind of money, why am I driving last year's car? Wearing last year's suits? If I just had the tax they are taxing me, I would be a happy man. Forget the gross income. Just give me the tax money.

Depreciation (explain in Schedule C-2). I depreciated a lot last year and doubt if I could get the whole story on one form.

My depreciation was spiritual. It was downhill and no brakes.

I depreciated a tooth — and

I'm not growing new hair either. I had my neck photographed to the bone and had to wear a stiffening kind of dog collar. I got low backache. When I got over that I got high backache.

In my schedule I note that I am depreciating typewriter, tape recorder, house and office.

No space is given for the depreciation of the taxpayer himself.

I didn't get any younger.

"Subtract line 11 from line

10. Enter here and in Part IV, line 1, on reverse side."

My capital gains dividends were $32.41. That is not much of a score, Bagman. You can chew that much up in a fair dinner out. If I am not mistaken, the bagman grabs half of this. (It is marked $16.20. I imagine he throws the odd penny in the gutter.)

Or maybe they are adding it to my taxable income. It is hard to tell.

Whatever it is, I don't come out winners. The bagman is in this business all year round. He has plenty of time to figure out how to shave you as close as possible.

"Other Income (explain)." That's a funny way to put it. Explain what? I could explain that I worked myself to a frazzle for other income because I cannot seem to live on income no matter what it is.

This is an odd thing about income.

If your income doesn't quite make it, you add to the income by moonlighting.

By and by you get used to that income. And then that isn't enough.

Nonetheless, bagman is at your door come spring for a piece of the action.

No wonder taxpayer depreciates.

Ah, well. It is spring on our hillsides at Shady Acres. Spring at the bottom of the garden — the pussy willows are full-furred now. The tulips are coming up.

"Is this a joint return or a return by head of household?"

It is a joint return. But head of household will pay it. (I argued this point at some length the other night. But Joint got so indignant I had to drop it.)

"Cash on hand and in the bank." A cold and calculating question to ask a man when spring is in his heart.

and spring breezes ruffle his depreciated locks.

I had some cash on hand — rather on the dresser. But somebody went to the store this morning and borrowed it.

A wonder drug for heartburn?

A stomach specialist has tested a tablet so effective it can well be called a wonder drug. No bigger than a penny, this pill will neutralize the hot acid that causes heartburn better even than leading prescription-type antacids. In tests at a famous medical center it beat every leading antacid tested. What is this wonder drug for heartburn? TUMS. The penny tablet you think is a candy mint really is the best medicine you can buy for heartburn. TUMS. The medicine that's hard to believe, till you take it.

Tories, Leftists Hit U.S. Backing

... WILSON FACES DEMANDS

London (A)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson faced mounting demands Sunday from Britain's Conservatives and left-wing Laborites to give less support to President Johnson's policies, particularly in Viet Nam.

What looked like anti-American pressures gripped Wilson as his Labor government braced confidently for Thursday's national elections.

In a related development, former British Prime Minister Anthony Eden, now Lord Avon, sent a message reminding Conservative leader Edward Heath that at a somber moment in world affairs Britain's first obligation is to honor her Indo-Chinese pledges and to preserve Western unity.

— Away From U.S. —
Eden's words seemed to suggest concern about new trends in Conservative foreign policy away from close relationship with the United States and toward cooperation with President Charles de Gaulle. Avon helped author the 1954 Geneva accords that ended the Indo-Chinese civil war and set the bases for Vietnamese, Laotian and Cambodian independence.

The pressure on Wilson came from opposite directions:

1. Heath's Conservatives have been echoing President De Gaulle's grumbling against excessive dependence on American money, nuclear power and political leadership.

Enoch Powell, Conservative defense spokesman, only Saturday said "it would be intolerable" if the Wilson government were to send a token military force to Viet Nam. Powell envisaged such a development as part of a deal under which the Americans again would support the British pound against devaluation.

These things have led Heath and his men to taunt Wilson in the campaign with charges of "selling out to American pawnbrokers" and about being "America's satellite."

2. Leftwingers in the Labor movement long have campaigned against what they see as Wilson's uncritical support for Johnson's Viet Nam policy. Their complaints have been subdued by Wilson's frail grip on parliamentary power. But if Wilson returns to office with a comfortable margin, leftwingers and a sizeable number of middle-roadsers have made plain they no longer would feel restrained.

Laborite Economic Affairs Minister George Brown, in a Birmingham speech frequently interrupted by hecklers, charged Sunday night that the Tories were the only Gauls left in Europe except for the French president. He added: "They are being as irresponsible about America as they are about Europe. They are now adding to their De Gaulleism a blatant continuous anti-Americanism that were they to come to power would be a very dangerous thing for this country and the NATO alliance."

In the Conservative camp there are two schools of thought:

One, led by Powell, seems attracted by the De Gaulle concept of cooperation within a Europe freed from American dominance. This group wants a cutback in this country's commitments in Asia and Africa.

The other school, led by right winger Julian Amery, wants British bases and imperial responsibilities preserved outside Europe but without reliance on the Americans.

MRS. GANDHI ... arrives in U.S.

Mrs. Gandhi, Johnson Talks Vital To Peace

Washington (A)—Kashmir and arms aid are expected to figure prominently in talks beginning Monday between India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Johnson.

While no formal agenda has been announced for the discussions the meeting is deemed of high importance in settling the tone of future relations. And it may be significant in efforts to keep the uncertain peace in South Asia.

Johnson will greet Mrs. Gandhi at the White House at 11 Monday morning on her arrival from Williamsburg, Va., and talks between the two leaders will begin almost immediately. Monday night the President will host a state dinner for the prime minister.

Spirit Evaporating
There is concern among high authorities that the spirit of the Tashkent summit conference last December is evaporating.

Johnson is expected to point out that if India and Pakistan should resume hostilities over Kashmir, it undoubtedly would kill any chance of the U.S. Congress approving large sums for the economic and military aid of both countries.

The Johnson administration view is that while economic pressure probably won't succeed in bringing India and Pakistan together in a settlement of all issues, the two countries cannot be developed unless they produce the conditions necessary for peaceful development.

The United States has completed a review of policy toward both India and Pakistan since the Kashmir hostilities last September which brought a suspension of military aid and a pause in economic assistance to both countries.

Related To Peace
Congress was told by Assistant Secretary of State Raymond A. Hare that both India and Pakistan have been told that future U.S. aid "must be related rather directly to progress toward securing the peace between them, since without peace, economic development is not possible, and without economic development, stability is uncertain."

U.S. officials consider the question of military aid the most difficult single problem.

Mrs. Gandhi Here Seeking Close Ties

Williamsburg, Va. (A)—India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said Sunday night the world sorely needs "a closer understanding of nations and the aspirations of their people. I have come to the United States on such a quest."

Mrs. Gandhi spoke shortly after her arrival by presidential jet plane for two days of talks with President Johnson about international problems and relations between her country and his.

The prime minister relaxed in this restored colonial capital preparatory to flying to Washington Monday. She and her party, including her two sons, flew from Paris to Langley Air Force Base where they transferred to helicopters for the 13-minute ride to Williamsburg.

In a prepared statement, Mrs. Gandhi said she felt her visit to this country will produce better understanding and will strengthen India and the United States "in the common endeavor of promoting peace."

She said she was delighted "to be in the United States at the invitation of President Johnson and I bring him and Mrs. Johnson and the American people warm greetings from India."

"India's relations with the United States have been traditionally close and cordial, but friendship is something of which there can never be too much."

Mrs. Gandhi said, "I am certain that my visit will serve the purpose of better understanding so that both the United States and India, jointly and separately, each in its own way, are strengthened in the common endeavor of promoting peace."

The prime minister rested in the Allen Byrd House, an historic structure restored by the Rockefeller millions. The house is used to entertain visiting dignitaries.

Viet Nam Veteran Faces Possible Death From Shots

San Diego, Calif. (A)—Major David L. Mead endured pain while serving in Viet Nam. Now he's enduring anti-rabies treatments which could kill him.

On March 18, Mead, 39, tried to stop a collier from annoying children in his Ocean Beach neighborhood. The dog bit the retired Army officer on both hands, then ran off. The children were unhurt.

If the dog was found to be rabid, Mead would have died in about three weeks. The disease is fatal without treatment within the prescribed period.

But the dog hasn't been located.

10 Days To Decide
Mead had 10 days to decide whether to take the anti-rabies treatments, a series of shots in the stomach, one each day for 14 days.

He decided to take the treatment, although side effects from the vaccine could trigger a fatal epileptic attack.

Doctors said the anti-rabies treatment affects the central nervous system, which in Mead is already impaired by his wounds. The weakening effect of the shots could bring on an epileptic attack, they warned.

Mead's first injections, Saturday and Sunday, did not cause an immediate seizure but they did make him weak. He said it may be several days before he learns what reaction he will have, if any.

"Pretty Weak"
"He's pretty weak but doing better than we expected," said his wife, Beverly. "He doesn't seem to be allergic to the vaccine but he's pretty exhausted. But should the shots make him weaker and weaker, he would be subject to a seizure."

Associated Press accounts of the Korean veteran's dilemma brought a deluge of advice and sympathy.

"We've received about 400 calls," Mead said.

One early call was particularly heartening. It was from a Los Angeles man who said he suffers epilepsy and was bitten by a rabid dog. He told Mead he had no complications from anti-rabies virus taken from a duck embryo.

Mead's attorney, Harold D. Cornell, said he investigated the duck embryo virus and concluded that it is safer than the old Pasteur-type monkey virus.

50 to 1 Odds
Even with the duck embryo virus, which they decided to use, Cornell said the odds are still 50 to 1 that Mead will become sick and perhaps have a series of seizures, hopefully mild ones. "But I think he will come through all right," Cornell added.

"He's pretty strong-minded," Mrs. Mead said. "I'm sure he'll overcome."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

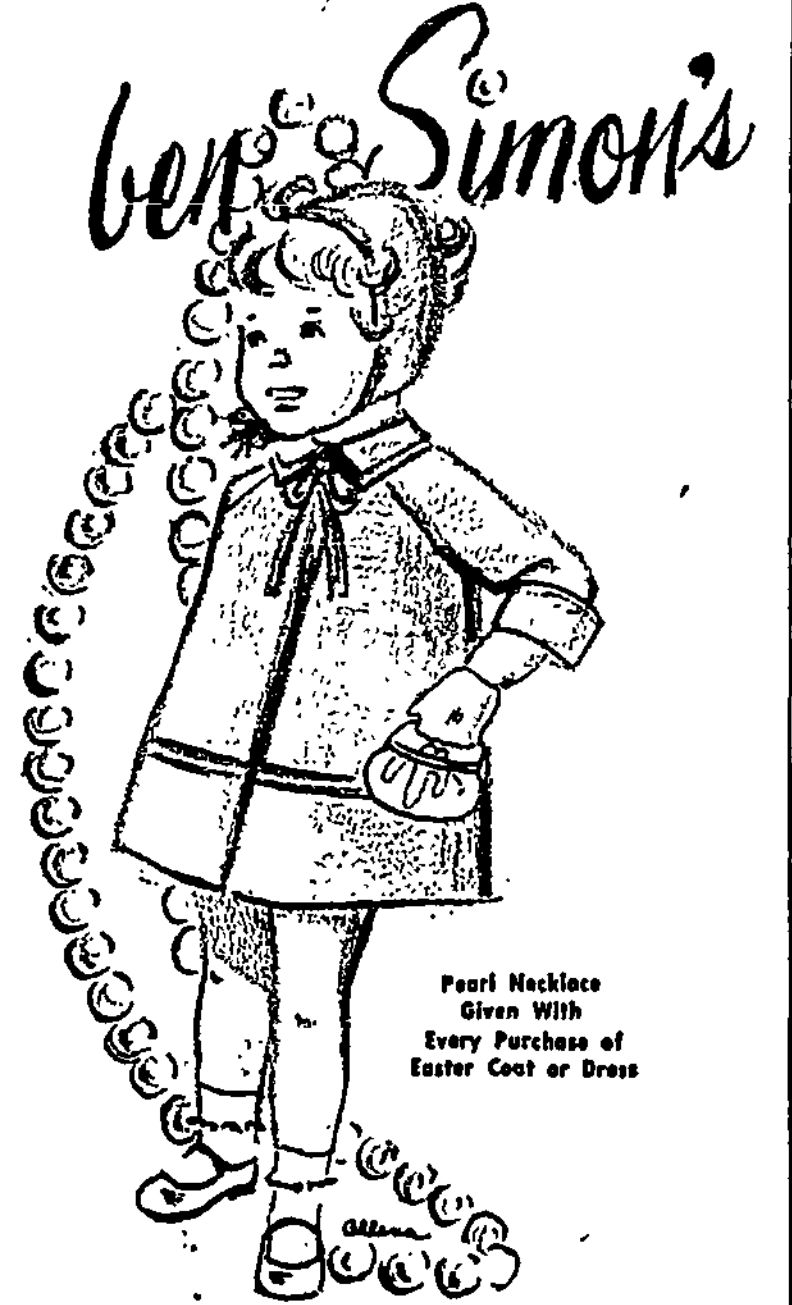

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy going to bridal showers. But not for a 44-year-old "bride" who has shed three husbands! I can't get out of going because of family obligations, but I feel certain that a woman who has been married off and on for 20 years doesn't need to be set up in housekeeping. I think showering a bride under these circumstances is in the worst possible taste. Who is to blame? The future sister-in-law who is putting on the shower? Or the bride who is permitting it?

"PICKLE FORK"
DEAR PICKLE-FORK: I'd say it's a joint venture. And between the two of them they hope to fill the joint with gifts.

DEAR ABBY: Recently a reader of your column wrote in with the brilliant (?) idea that women who are looking for men should wear some kind of special ring to indicate that they are available. And since there are so many widows and divorcees around today, some smart jeweler should design such a ring.

Your reply was to the point. You said, "Any man who is interested in finding out if a woman is available, can and will." Being an eligible male, I can back you up 100 percent.

But I would go a step further and say that if a woman is looking, she should leave all her rings at home. Engagement and wedding rings that have been switched to the right hand can be confusing. And just the sight of them can discourage a man. Those "friendship" rings some women wear can mean anything from "I am going steady" to "I am living common law with someone." There is nothing like an unadorned hand to let a man know the coast is clear.

One facet of bridge not sufficiently emphasized is the problem of placing the declaration in the proper hand. Many contracts fail solely because the wrong hand becomes declarer, and at least some of them can be saved by anticipating this difficulty and dealing properly with it.

For example, take this deal which occurred in the match between Great Britain and the United States in 1962. When the American pair held the North-South cards, the bidding went as shown.

It does seem that North should have been somewhat more aggressive after South jump-shifted in spades and then leaped to four spades the next time around. Presumably South was announcing a suit independent of support as well as interest in a slam, and on that basis North had the values for at least one more bid.

However, if North had carried on to six spades, South would have gone down one due to the unfortunate lie of the clubs.

The odds against East's having both the ace and queen were about 3 to 1, and if South had been in a slam and gone down, he could well have attributed the result to bad luck. Actually, South made five spades for a score of 650 points.

When Friday and Truscott held the North-South cards for Britain, the bidding went:

West North East South

Pass 1♥ Pass 2♠

Pass 3♦ Pass 4♣

Pass 4NT Pass 5♦

Pass 6NT

This excellent contract could not be defeated when Friday, after utilizing Blackwood, contracted for six no-trump. Played from his seat (North), the slam was unbeatable, and when East selected a spade as his opening lead, Friday made all the tricks for a score of 1,470 points.

The British team gained 820 points on the deal.

A luncheon honoree on Saturday afternoon was Miss Ann Kotouc, University of Nebraska coed, whose marriage to David Duey of Sabetha, Kan., will be an event of Saturday, April 9. The bride-to-be, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kotouc, Jr., of Humboldt, was presented a personal shower at a party for which Miss Ann Magee was hostess at her home. Co-hostesses with Miss Magee were Miss Patricia Maixner parents, not BECAUSE of them.

Coffees seem to reflect the way of life in suburbia—There are housewarming coffees, new baby coffees, card coffees, housewares coffees, welcoming coffees and on Wednesday Mrs. Dennis McBride and Mrs. Bruce Schlaebitz were co-hostesses at a farewell coffee at the home of Mrs. McBride for departee Mrs. James Newlin.

Mrs. Newlin, who with Mr. Newlin and their children, Jeff, Julie and Laurie, will leave in the near future for a new home in their former home state, Illinois. The Newlins have resided at 8240 E. Avon Lane and will transfer to Fairbury, Ill.

WEDGEWOOD

The Donald Johnson family was treated to a delightfully unique experience last week when two Protestant Sisters from a convent in Darnstadt, Germany, stopped to visit with them for four days on their way to California. The Protestant convent was formed after World War II when a group of Christian girls felt a need for such devotion. And since its formation the group has grown by leaps and bounds. The organization is modeled after the Catholic with the girls dressing similar to a nun in black habits—only with bandanas instead of coifs.

The girls are in this country due to a type of spiritual exchange program. They work with all denominations but these two sisters are specifically traveling to California to teach and share ideas with a Lutheran Church there. While they were in Lincoln the sisters treated the Johnsons to slides of their convent and of their trip to the Holy Land. But mostly they provided a charming, enlightening encounter to remember for a long time.

Miss Nancy Joy Milburn, who has chosen an April date for her marriage to Rodney Thomas Jacobs, was honored at a prenuptial courtesy last Thursday given by a group of members of the Epworth Methodist Church. A miscellaneous shower was presented to the honoree during the party, which was held in the church parlors.

The soon-to-be bride has named Miss Melody Sommer as her maid of honor for the 3 o'clock ceremony, which will be solemnized Sunday, April 17, at Epworth Methodist Church. Miss Becky Liekam will be the bridesmaid.

Serving his brother as best man will be Bruce Jacobs, and the groomsmen will be Lenny Bloebaum, Dick Yost and Lyle Judson.

Included among the recent courtesies honoring April bride-elect, Miss Sharon Cramer, was the informal party on Saturday, March 19, for which the honoree's aunt, Mrs. Charles Cramer, was hostess. The guests included feminine members of the family.

Miss Cramer, who will become the bride of Steven Rohn on Saturday, April 9, also was honored on Friday, March 18, when Mrs. George Lawson and Mrs. George Wright were co-hostesses at the home of Mrs. Wright. Mrs. Ronald Brannin and Mrs. Gene McKeen also entertained at a recent bridal shower for the soon-to-be bride.

afternoon wedding

The wedding of Miss Rita Marie Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Young of Ulysses, and Rockie H. Fanning of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fanning, Olympia, Wash., took place Sunday afternoon, March 27, at the Methodist Church in Ulysses. The Rev. John Zemanek read the lines of the 3 o'clock service, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Raymond Hartman, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Dale Onnen, the vocal soloist.

Wearing long-skirted frocks of blue satin with white lace trim were Miss Carol Larson of Central City, the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Diana Williams, Ft. Worth, Tex., and Miss Carol Loveland, Lincoln. They carried bouquets of white pompons and gladioli florets.

William Traina of Lincoln, served as best man, and seating the guests were Wayne Young, Ulysses, and Michael McConnell, Lincoln.

The bride appeared in a gown of traditional white satin. Appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace marked the Empire waist of the long-sleeved basque, and was repeated on the slim skirt, which was complemented by a court train of the satin extending to chapel length. Her silk illusion veil was held by a crown of illusion petals edged with pearls, and she carried a cascade of white orchids.

Mr. Fanning, who has been stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base, and his bride will live in Bunker Hill, Ind., where the bridegroom has been transferred.

Americans Expect, But Don't Endorse, Tax Hike—Survey

By LOUIS HARRIS

By better than 4 to 1, the American people expect their federal income taxes to be raised as a result of the war in Viet Nam. However, this expectation should not be taken as public endorsement of a tax hike. By a 49-44% margin, Americans say they are opposed to higher income taxes.

Harris

Individual views about the conduct of the war in Viet Nam dramatically affect support for a tax rise. Americans who advocate military escalation back a tax hike 5 to 4, while those who believe negotiations should be more vigorously explored are against increased taxes by a comparable margin. The small segment of the public—9%—that wants total U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam is overwhelmingly opposed to a tax rise.

The attitudes on taxes are almost directly reversed when people are asked about invoking price controls. Only about one-third of the public actually expects price controls to be imposed. But, by a 68 to 23% margin, Americans say they would favor the imposition of controls if the President said they were necessary to avoid inflation.

Both the income tax increase and price controls have been mentioned as measures to support the war effort in Viet Nam and to keep inflation at home under control. They obviously would generate political repercussions and could affect next fall's off-year elections as much as the war itself.

A carefully drawn cross section of the population was asked:

"Some say that as a result of the war in Viet Nam the federal government is going to have to raise income taxes. Do you think income taxes are going to be raised or not?"

	Favor	Oppose	Not Sure
Nation-wide	49%	44%	7%
By income
Under $5,000	47%	45%	8%
$5,000-$9,999	47%	39%	14%
$10,000 and over	46%	41%	13%
By Viet Nam views
Want military pressure	52%	42%	6%
Want more negotiations	40%	53%	7%
Want United States withdrawal	17%	80%	3%

Upper income groups, who undoubtedly would be asked to pay the highest proportion of a tax increase, favor such a move by the federal government. Lower income groups are opposed to a tax hike even if President Johnson said it was necessary to pay for the war in Viet Nam. Ironically, the $10,000 and over group usually votes heavily Republican while the lower income people vote Democratic.

The public is more uncertain about the likelihood of price controls being imposed. People were asked:

"Some say that as a result of the war in Viet Nam the government is going to have to put in a system of price controls of things people buy. Do you think price controls are going to be put in or not?"

	Expect	Don't expect	Not sure
Nation-wide	68%	23%	9%
By income
Under $5,000	69%	20%	11%
$5,000-$9,999	70%	21%	9%
$10,000 and over	64%	28%	8%

The large number of people who are unsure of whether price controls are likely diminished sharply when the cross section was asked to express a view for or against price controls:

"As far as you personally are concerned, if President Johnson said it was necessary to have price controls to avoid inflation, would you favor or oppose price controls?"

	Favor	Oppose	Not Sure
Nation-wide	68%	23%	9%
By income
Under $5,000	69%	20%	11%
$5,000-$9,999	70%	21%	9%
$10,000 and over	64%	28%	8%

The pattern of support and opposition to prospective tax and price control measures contains some significant differences. For example, the pivotal middle-income group (from $5,000-9,999 per year) is most opposed to a tax increase but most favor price controls. By contrast, those in the top bracketers are most opposed to price controls but tend to favor a tax increase. Clearly, middle-income people are reacting most strongly to rises in the cost of living and the accompanying squeeze between income and prices.

If you are 65 or over, or if you have parents or friends who are eligible for Medicare, there are important facts to be considered now.

Medicare will pay for many health services, but not for everything, and you must pay the difference out of your own pocket, and this can be costly. If you do not have additional protection designed specifically to help fill the gaps, or if you have insurance with dollar limitations, you may not have the health-care coverage you really need to get well.

This is why Blue Cross and Blue Shield, the Plans that over 5 million Americans 65 and over have, designed a new low-cost Plan called "MEDICARE-EXTENDED" to help fill the gaps in Medicare for only $5.50 per person.

UFOs Go On Tantalizing Michigan; Sighters Critical Of Expert Answer

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP) — Unidentified flying objects go on tantalizing Michigan, despite an expert's finding that failed to support their existence in two sightings areas.

New reports of sightings extended about 100 miles north Saturday night — up toward the tip of Michigan's "thumb" in Lake Huron.

At the same time odd lights were reported in the sky over Oakland (Pontiac) County and the neighboring Detroit area. Others were reported westward in the Lansing area.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University, scientific consultant to the Air Force, has reported phenomena seen at Dexter and Hillsdale on the

Hearing April 5 On State Rules Covering Schools

The State Board of Education will conduct a public hearing April 5 in Lincoln on the proposed adoption of rules and regulations for state approval of public elementary schools.

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller noted Sunday the proposed standards would serve only as guidelines since the state board has no statutory authority to close schools for failure to meet standards.

He noted Nebraska never before has had minimum rules and regulations for the operation of public elementary school districts.

"While the proposed rules are to undergird elementary education in all public schools, they will be of particular concern to Nebraska's 2,160 Class I (rural) elementary schools," he said.

The public hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the East Senate Chamber of the Capitol.

HEARTBURN?

TUMS

The great big medicine in the little green pill night of March 20 probably the result of swamp gases.

Met With Question

His conclusion met with question again Sunday, however.

Sheriff's deputy Keith Lester of Oakland County said it was "definitely" an object which he saw with "glowing green and red and blue lights" about 9 p.m. Saturday night in the vicinity of Pontiac Township.

Earlier Sheriff Douglas Harvey of Washtenaw County and Civil Defense Director William Van Horn of Hillsdale County had criticized Dr. Hynek's report. Dexter is in Washtenaw County.

Van Horn said the swamp gas explanation was an attempt to "explain it away arbitrarily."

"The Air Force," Van Horn said, "is going to get into trouble going on this way. It seems like a whitewash."

Inquiry Asked

Dr. Hynek, an astrophysicist, came to Michigan to investigate after appeals from the start to the Air Force and the Defense Department for an inquiry in justice to disturbed citizens.

Dr. Hynek investigated at Dexter and Hillsdale only on reported sightings in those areas. His report related only to those areas.

The Oakland County sheriff's office at Pontiac said 12 or 14 deputies on separate road patrols saw at least four objects in the sky Saturday night.

In Washington, Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., who has called for a congressional investigation into the UFO situation said many reliable Michigan residents feel the incidents are "sufficient to justify some action by our government and not the kind of flippant answer that was given by the Air Force where they passed it off as swamp gas."

Speaking on the CBS television-radio program "Face The Nation," the House minority leader said, "I think the American people would be more assured that there were or were not (flying saucers) if such a public hearing was held."

UFO Command Post New Target?

Dayton, Ohio (AP) — Now the unidentified flying objects are zeroing in on Air Force headquarters for investigating UFO's?

Sure enough, early Sunday, according to Ohio Highway Patrolman R. D. Landversicht, he saw a strange bright light approaching Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

And Wright-Patterson is the home of the National Unidentified Aerial Phenomena Office (Project Blue Book).

Normally there's nothing strange about bright lights approaching the base, since airplanes — the identifiable kind — come and go frequently.

But these lights were different, the patrolman indicated.

Landversicht, of the Dayton Patrol Post, reportedly photographed the "phenomenon" and Project Blue Book planned to develop his film Monday.

Retail Hardware Convention, Show Is Largest Ever

The Nebraska Retail Hardware Association opened its annual convention and show Sunday at Pershing Auditorium with record numbers of exhibitors and dealers attending.

President Bob Perry of Fremont said the show has 150 exhibitors and more than 900 dealers in attendance. He also said that the registration for Monday, the show's last day, indicates another record.

Exhibitors are from Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Iowa, and Nebraska.

Monday's show includes a business seminar to be conducted by James Bikkie, associate professor at the University of Nebraska, and Jack R. Coggins, representative of a national magazine in Los Angeles. The exhibits are open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Gentile Must Shed 'Red-Neck' Label

... IN ASTRO CAMP

Cocoa, Fla. (AP)—Jim Gentile has come to camp with the Houston Astros determined to shake his "red-neck" label and prevent his Diamond Jim tag from fading to Zircon Jim.

"You've got to do something when you have a disastrous year like I did last year," Gentile said in discussing his new attitude. "This year is about as important to me as the first year I tried to win a job in the majors."

U.S. Runner Disqualified From Race

Perth, Australia (AP)—Richmond Flowers, University of Tennessee freshman who already had won two titles, was disqualified from the 200-meter race Sunday in the Australian track and field championships.

Flowers, the only American competing on the final day of a track and field tour of Australia, was dropped from the race crossing lanes in his heat.

The 18-year-old son of the attorney general of Alabama won the 110-meter and 200-meter hurdles and finished third in the 100-meter dash Saturday.

Sunday's competition was held in temperatures that soared about 100 degrees.

Ron Clarke of Australia easily won the 5,000-meter run, giving him two titles. He won the 10,000-meter run Saturday.

Another Australian, Ralph Doubell, broke the meet record in the 800-meter run, finishing in 1:47.3.

Following the meet, Clarke said he may not compete in the 1968 Olympic Games at Mexico City because of the high altitude. Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., one of the United States' top runners, expressed a similar view.

Clarke, interviewed with Grelle and Russian Vladimir Mikhailov, said he would not consider competing unless he had three months of training to get used to the high altitude in Mexico City.

STAUFFER NAMED WASHBURN COACH

Topeka, Kan. (AP)—Gordon Stauffer, assistant basketball coach at the University of Oklahoma, was named Sunday head basketball coach at Washburn Municipal University of Topeka.

At Washburn he will replace Norman Short, head coach for six years, who resigned.

Miles, Ruby Have Pushed American Prestige To Top

... WITH RECORD-BREAKING SEBRING WIN

Sebring, Fla. (AP)—Ken Miles and Lloyd Ruby, opposites in all ways except winning sports car races, have pushed American prestige to the top with their victory in the tragedy-studded Sebring 12-hour sports car race.

Miles, of Los Angeles, a thin, hawk-faced, British-born automotive engineer, and Ruby, a ruddy, drawing curly-haired Texan from Wichita Falls, rewrote the record book Saturday in the gruelling race that left five dead.

They also gleaned extra points for Ford in its race for the world manufacturer's trophy, based on races throughout the world.

Miles and Ruby won the 12-hour Sebring event, run over a 5.2 mile abandoned military airport course, by covering 1,285.6 miles at an average speed of 98.631 miles an hour in a Ford Roadster XI.

This is a modified version of the Ford MK II that Miles and Ruby drove to victory in the 24-hour Continental race at Daytona Beach in February.

The two victories give Ford a big edge of 12 points going into the 24-hour race at Le Mans, France, next month.

"We think we can win it," said Miles and Ruby after their victory, which broke European domination over international road racing but was won in a tragic arena.

Five persons, including Canadian racing champion Bob McLean, died during the long day.

McLean was killed when his Ford GTO40 went out of control near the hairpin turn, skidded, crashed into a utility pole and exploded in flames after cartwheeling several times.

Four others died when two of the top 10 contenders, a Ferrari and a Porsche, tangled near the Webster Turn, sending the Porsche through a fence and into a crowd of spectators.

Killed were Willis Edenfield of Lakeland, Fla., and his two sons, Willis Jr., 19, and Mark, 8.

The fourth victim was Mrs. Ford Hancock, wife of a prominent Sebring insurance executive and daughter of one of the founders of the race.

The accident started when Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., chasing the leading Fords in a Ferrari, missed a shift at the Webster Turn and spun out.

Don Webster of Monterey, Calif., also running in the top 10 in a Porsche Carrera 6, collided with Andretti and crashed through a fence into the crowd.

Wester suffered minor scratches. Andretti, badly shaken by the accident, did not learn of the fatalities until he returned to the pit, where his car caught fire during refueling and was eliminated from the race.

Wester was hospitalized shortly after the accident for treatment of shock. His condition was not considered serious.

Alec Ulman, organizer and one of the founders of the race, said the track protects the spectators to the best of its ability.

"However," he said, "Those who were killed when the Porsche went into the crowd were out of the area of responsibility of the track."

As for McLean, Ulman said, "All drivers know it's a dangerous sport when they enter. It was unfortunate about McLean."

Chisox Storm To 9th Victory

... IN AS MANY GAMES

By Associated Press
The Chicago White Sox stormed to their ninth straight exhibition victory Sunday, defeating Detroit, 7-1, behind the combined six-hit pitching of Joe Horlen, Dennis Higgins and Eddie Fisher.

A three-run homer by Jim Hicks in the ninth inning clinaxed the victory, Chicago's 15th in 17 spring games. The Tigers didn't score until Jim Northrup homered in the ninth.

Five of the other nine games were one-run decisions. The Chicago Cubs edged San Francisco 4-3, the New York Mets nipped Philadelphia 5-4 in 12 innings, Pittsburgh topped Baltimore 4-3, St. Louis trimmed Houston 4-3 and the New York Yankees squeezed past Cincinnati 7-6 in 15 innings.

In the other games California stopped Cleveland 11-8 in 11 innings, Atlanta defeated Los Angeles 4-2, Washington knocked off Kansas City 5-1 and Boston beat Minnesota 5-1.

Ron Santo hit a two-run homer in the first inning, then won the game for the Cubs with a sacrifice fly in the eighth. The Mets won on a run-scoring single by Choo Choo Coleman in the 12th.

Successful sixth-inning doubles by Bob Bailey and Jose Pagan gave Pittsburgh its victory while St. Louis won with a run in the seventh on Norman Miller's wild throw from the outfield after Tito Francona's single.

Tom Tresh hit two homers, including a grand slam, and Joe Pepitone added one for the Yankees, but it took a 15th-inning run on singles by Elston Howard, Horace Clarke and Clete Boyer for the triumph.

Tony Cloninger allowed just four hits in seven innings and doubled home a run in the three-run second as Atlanta defeated the Dodgers.

The charcoal we use at Jack Daniel's to gentle our whiskey is burned in the open air. This is the only way we know of making it.

Some folks have said charcoal can't be made in the open air. We've even heard from a man who sent us the only formula for making charcoal and said our process doesn't follow it. Well, we're not chemists and neither was Jack Daniel. All we know is we've been making charcoal in the open air since the day Mr. Jack started his distillery a century ago. We do follow a formula, but it's nothing like a chemist's formula.

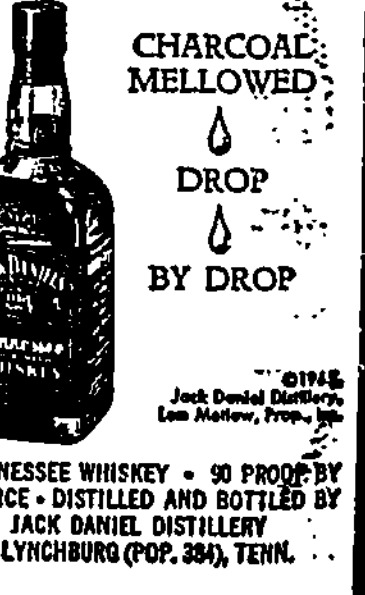

Ours starts with a Tennessee whiskey tree—a hard maple growing on high ground. It's cut in the season when the sap is down and brought to the hollow where it's sawed up and carefully stacked in racks.

The racks are always burned in the open air where the wind can carry away the smoke and leave the purest charcoal possible. (This is why the racks are stacked so carefully; without that and the expert use of water, the maple would just burn to ashes.)

So you see, there's no secret about the way we make our charcoal. If there's any secret at all, it's in what the charcoal does to our Tennessee sippin' whiskey. A sip, we believe, will tell you what we mean.

Saari Made Difference In NCAA Championships

... CAL WINS 4TH STRAIGHT

Air Force Academy, Colo. (AP)—Indiana ranked as the favorite in the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships but for the fourth straight year the University of California holds the team championship.

Indiana coach James Counsilman said his Big Ten champions were weakened by the flu.

But ultimately, he said, the difference was Roy Saari, the Southern California freestyler who won the 200, 500 and 1,650-yard races.

Southern California came back after trailing Indiana the first day to roll up 302 points. Indiana had 286 for its third straight second place finish, followed by Michigan with 253, Michigan State 173, Southern Methodist 143, Stanford 115, North Carolina State and UCLA 89, Ohio State 80 and Wisconsin 42.

"Saari was brilliant as usual," said Counsilman. "For three years we've been beaten by him. The points he got made the difference."

War, Inflation, 2-Party System To Be Nebraska GOP Themes

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Retention of the two-party system, conduct of the war in Viet Nam and inflation emerged Sunday as the major issues which Nebraska Republicans appear ready to ride with in national election races this year.

Nebraskans will fill four national offices in November.

one in the U.S. Senate and three House seats.

"The great issue this year is the threat to the two-party system," actor-politician Ronald Reagan told a record-busting GOP Founders Day banquet audience at the University of Nebraska Coliseum Saturday night.

One-party rule, he warned, soon becomes one-man rule.

Earlier, Third District Rep. Dave Martin told party faithful at an afternoon session that "it is not in the best interests of the country to have a weak minority in Congress."

Sen. Carl Curtis also struck the two-party theme, and scored Democrats for "debts, inflation and centralization of power" coupled with what he called "a bewildering foreign policy."

What is needed, he said, is a balanced federal budget, sound fiscal policy and "progress without bankruptcy."

On Viet Nam, Reagan told a press conference: "Once you ask young men to fight and die for their country, you have a moral obligation to help them achieve victory at the least cost possible."

Fuller use of U.S. industrial and military might could "bring victory at much less cost," he declared.

Reagan hit the Great Society hardest for what he called its impositions on individual freedom.

Not Morally Right

"There are certain things that majority rule cannot make morally right," he suggested.

With the greatest emphasis placed on national races, it was left to Omaha attorney W. C. Fraser to urge Republicans to elect their first governor since 1956.

Asking for "party loyalty," Fraser declared: "We ought to hang our heads in shame the way we Republicans have voted in recent years."

GOP gubernatorial candidate N. T. Tiemann of Wausau stole the show from three opponents at the evening banquet.

were buoyed by the record-der way, traveled on to De-shattering size of the banquet trol for a meeting with In-audience. More than 3,000 industrialists over California persons were fed on the floor smog problems and what he of the Coliseum; an additional called "the deteriorating busi-700 watched from the bal-ness climate" in the nation's most populous state.

Reagan, whose visit to Lin- Pleased with his Lincoln coin was his first trip outside reception, he quipped: "I California since his gubernat- could be running in the wrong torial campaign has been un-state."

Envoy Ordered Not To Attend Rights Rally?

Paris (AP)—American Negro singer Harry Belafonte said Sunday the U.S. ambassador in Paris has refused, on instructions from Washington, to attend a civil rights benefit here Monday night at which Belafonte and Dr. Martin Luther King will appear.

Belafonte told a news conference he called on U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen Friday and extended an invitation. "The ambassador," according to Belafonte, "said he could not attend because he had official instructions from Washington not to do so."

After the news conference, reporters sought further details from Belafonte on his visit to Bohlen. He said Bohlen had told him to "keep the civil rights movement within national borders."

There was no immediate comment from the State

Department in Washington on the Paris developments.

Support Told

Bohlen was out of the city and could not be reached immediately for comment, an embassy spokesman said. However, the spokesman confirmed that Bohlen had declined the invitation. The spokesman added "the American embassy supports civil rights and civil rights organizations as a whole but does not become officially involved with individual civil rights groups."

The news conference was called in connection with the rally which is to be held in the Paris Sports Palace to raise funds for the U.S. civil rights movement. A reporter had first asked Dr. King if he had any comment on reports that the rally organizers had run into resistance from U.S. officials in Paris.

King replied that he had just arrived in Paris Saturday night and did not feel he knew enough about the situation to comment. At that point Belafonte, who has been here several days, said it was true the rally had not received the backing of all Americans in Paris. He then told about his visit to Bohlen.

Other Instances

King was then asked if he thought it was normal that an ambassador should attend such a rally. King replied "it is very unfortunate (that the ambassador was not attending) but it is not abnormal. There have been other such instances."

King said he thought that the U.S. government should "go all out" for civil rights movements. He also said the government should have applauded the fact that he was awarded a Nobel Peace Prize and was given $55,000 in prize money which, he said, he turned over to the civil rights movement.

Six Spain-Made Ships Will Give Cuba Fleet Of 45

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Havana Radio says six vessels being built in Spanish shipyards will bring Cuba's cargo fleet to 45 by the end of the year.

The freighters will have a total cargo capacity of more than 245,700 tons, said the broadcast monitored here Saturday.

Nineteen vessels of Cuba's freighter fleet were in service before Fidel Castro came to power in 1959.

Computers Accurate Tax Check

Washington (AP) — Better be careful filing out your income tax return — the computers may get you if you don't watch out.

Uncle Sam's electronic brains already are clicking away on batches of the more than 100 million returns the Internal Revenue Service expects to receive this year.

And the computers are programmed not only to catch errors in arithmetic but also such things as failure of taxpayers to report interest and dividend income — and the person who files more than one return in hope of getting a double refund.

Foolproof System
The tax men think the system is virtually foolproof. They cited a case still under investigation where a taxpayer filed returns in four different regions claiming refunds totaling more than $2,000.

IRS said the man — whom they declined to identify because the case is pending — apparently had studied the computer system and figured he could outwit the machines by filing duplicate returns in different regions.

But he overlooked the National Computer Center at Martinsburg, W. Va., where the regional centers send their tapes for further processing.

What To Expect
Here's what taxpayers can expect this year from the computers:

All returns — business and individual — will be checked at the regional level for errors in arithmetic. They will be checked further at the West Virginia center to determine whether anyone filed duplicate returns seeking refunds.

In addition, this year all business returns and about 35 million of the expected 65 million individual returns which will be filed before the April 15 deadline will receive the full computer treatment at the West Virginia center. This includes matching income and interest reported on a taxpayer's return with the wages, interest and dividends reported to IRS by his employer, bank and corporation in which he might hold stock.

When the West Virginia master file is completed next year, it will contain this basic information on all taxpayers: Social Security or tax number; name and address; information — such as tax paid and number of exemptions — given by the taxpayer on his last three income tax returns and information on income from wages, interest and dividends to match with income declared by the taxpayer.

Accountant Caught
IRS said the computers recently tripped up an accountant who hadn't filed a return since 1957 although his main work over the past 20 years was preparing tax returns for clients.

His income from dividends, salaries and fees, IRS said, ranged between $25,000 and $35,000 annually during those years but he admitted failure to file returns and said it was because he lacked funds to pay the tax.

A byproduct of the computer system, IRS said, is the pressure it exerts on some taxpayers to confess past omissions before they're caught.

Last year, nine taxpayers filed 92 tax returns covering $694,000 in previously unreported taxes because they feared detection by the computers, IRS said.

One case involved a taxpayer who hadn't filed returns for more than 10 years. On advice of his attorney, the individual filed returns and paid more than $450,000 in delinquent taxes, penalties and interest.

Glenn Ford, Actress Wed

Hollywood (AP) — Veteran movie actor Glenn Ford and television actress Kathryn Hays were married Sunday at Westwood Community Methodist Church with Dr. Melvin Wheatley Jr. officiating.

Ford, 49, and Miss Hays plan a European honeymoon, including a visit to the Cannes Film Festival in France in May.

Peter Ford, 21, the actor's son by dancer Eleanor Powell, was best man. Ford and Miss Powell were divorced in 1959 after a 16-year marriage.

Miss Hays, scheduled to appear in a television series this fall, is the daughter of Arnold R. Gottlieb of Joliet, Ill.

Paper Deliverers Want Agreement From New Firm

New York (AP) — The Newspaper Deliverers Union voted Sunday to authorize a strike against the proposed World Journal Tribune Corp. Unless agreement on a new contract is reached with the new company.

The Herald Tribune, World Telegram & the Sun and Journal-American have announced they intend to merge into one morning, one afternoon and one Sunday newspaper.

Joseph Baer, president of the AFL-CIO newspaper and mail deliverers of New York said, "We expect to have complete agreement on all issues prior to the start of the new corporation. If they start to print without that agreement, we're going to strike."

The union contends the proposed corporation would be a new entity, voiding its contracts with the three newspapers involved. No effective date has been set for the merger, which is being studied by the U.S. Justice Department.

Keith McIntyre Named To Head NU Law Group

Keith McIntyre of Superior has been elected dean of the Maxwell Senate of Delta Theta Phi law fraternity at the University of Nebraska, succeeding John W. Carlson of Loomis.

At the fraternity's annual election meeting, Carlson reported that the local chapter ranks third in the nation and is competing for the national "outstanding senate" award.

Carlson also announced that Sen. Carl T. Curtis will speak at the annual Delta Theta Phi Founder's Day April 29.

Other new officers: Steve Stashny of Lincoln, tribune; Larry Hall of Kearney, vice dean; Raymond Baker of Henry, clerk of the exchequer; Gary Thompson of Lincoln, master of the ritual; Stephen Brumley of Sutton, clerk of the rolls; and Paul Conley, of Lincoln, balliff.

Reds Make Big Deal

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk says the Soviet Union has offered new and "very great" military aid to his country. It was reported here. Government sources said the Cambodian chieftain made the announcement when he inaugurated a hydroelectric dam. He rejected assistance from the United States in 1963.

PLEA TO GUNMAN

Distraught gunman Maximo S. Palacios held police at bay for nearly two hours Sunday while firing 30 rounds wildly. He is shown in the window with two hostages, Kathy, 7, and Janet Waters, 9, while the Rev. Joseph Coleman, police chaplain, pleads for their safety.

Ruth Marhenke Dies At Age 71

Ruth Marhenke, 71, 3109 Kleckner Court, participant in state fraternal groups, died Sunday.

Mrs. Marhenke served as national committeewoman for the Supreme Forest Woodman Circle of Woodmen of the World. She also served as president of the Nebraska Fraternal Congress and was state manager of the state Woodmen of the World.

A member of Grace Methodist Church, Mrs. Marhenke is survived by her brothers-in-law, Martin E. of Lincoln and John C. of Bennett.

Services will be 2 p.m. Tuesday at Roberts Mortuary Chapel, 1110 P. with the Rev. Henry C. Beatty officiating.

Party Heads Back East German Talks

Berlin (AP) — The heads of two West German political parties guardedly expressed willingness this weekend to participate in public discussions in communist East Germany.

Opposition Socialist Party leader Willy Brandt and Erich Mende, deputy chancellor and leader of the Free Democrats, both commented on East German proposals at separate party conventions.

Brandt, mayor of West Berlin, was commenting on the latest in a public exchange of proposals between his Social Democratic Party and the East German Communist Party, headed by Walter Ulbricht.

He said representatives of all parties in the East and West German governments should be free to hold public discussions in any part of this divided country.

No Persecution
But he said that freedom to take part in the discussions should apply to all parties — not merely the socialists and communists, as the communists proposed — and that no one should face persecution for attending such talks.

Mende, whose Free Democratic Party is junior coalition partner in Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government, offered support for Brandt's view by saying that his party was prepared to hold public talks with the minor East German Liberal Democratic Party. He added similar conditions to Brandt, demanding that politicians who participate in talks in East Germany should not be branded "half-communists" on their return to West Germany.

The East German Communist Party newspaper Neues Deutschland published Saturday the latest exchange with the socialists, consisting of the original open letter by the communists Feb. 7, the socialist reply and a new East German statement.

Discussion Sites
This proposed, as a "first step," that the socialists and the communists should hold public discussions at Karl-Marx-Stadt (formerly Chemnitz) in East Germany, and Essen in West Germany. The East German letter, signed by Ulbricht, said all speakers should enjoy full personal safety and freedom of speech.

Commenting on the new letter, Brandt accused the communists of evading questions posed by his party's letter and trying to justify itself "in a primitive way."

To the socialist question as to how open discussions could be held in view of the East German practice of shooting at would-be refugees, the communists replied that the status quo could not be altered and those who violated the East German border risked their necks.

POGO

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:
The United States had 21 million city in Communist China in 1915, but the number dwindled as automobiles become popular. Horse numbered 12 million in 1935 and two million in 1950.

Gunpower, first employed in battle in 1346, remained the most deadly military explosive until 1902 when TNT was introduced.

Shanghai, with 6,900,000 people, remains the most populous city in the world.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE
One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's and the two O's. Single letters, apostrophes, the fourth and fifth letters of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. The letters in your first name, if the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 1 if the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked numbers give you. THE HEART OF JULIET JONES

"This looks like the place."

"Imagine! Only a two-lane highway and not another service station for six miles... I never thought WE'D be pioneers!"
